THIRTY-FIVE CENTS

Jailed protesters joined by more

Protesters on Saturday

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Nine more anti-abortion protesters were arrested outside the Hope Clinic on Tuesday morning, and a spokesman for the protesters said they were arrested intentionally to replace others who had been bailed out of the Madison County Jail since their arrest Saturday.

Nearly 60 protesters remained in jail Tuesday, said attorney Ron Isaacs, a local spokesman for Operation Rescue, a national organization founded by Randall Terry in New York.

Those arrested gave their names as "Baby John Doe" and "Baby Jane Doe." They refused to give other personal information and therefore could not be processed for bail, according to Assistant Police Chief Ron Selph.

"They are representing the unborn lives that are killed here today and everyday," said Linda Karberg, a nurse at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis. Isaacs said the arrests and eventual trials would test the "doctrine of necessity," which he said is a legal tenet that permits citizens to trespass for the purpose of saving a life.

Selph said the crowd Tuesday was relatively small and was being dealt with by members of the police night shift who were held over. The nine were arrested when they trespassed on the clinic's parking lot, a policeman said.

About 50 protesters showed up at about 8 a.m. Tuesday. The number had dwindled to about 15 or 20 by 10 a.m. and all had left by 11:30. They had carried placards such as "Pre-born babies executed here."

Vicky Young of Ballwin, Mo., pushed a baby carriage with an infant in it while her daughter Aubrey walked alongside. The girl wore a placard saying, "I survived the holocaust of 1983." The infant wore a placard saying, "I survived the holocaust of 1988."

Selph said all of the 61 protesters arrested Saturday were given the opportunity to give the booking information while still in Granite City and that two did give the information and posted bail.

The cost of Saturday's demonstration to the Police Department could have paid the salary of a single officer for 4½ weeks, according to Selph.

Karberg said the protest was designed in part to jam up the legal system. They're the ones who are perpetrating the unjust laws," Karberg said.

The department used 120 premium hours, or 180 hours pay including overtime, arresting and processing the demonstrators, Selph said.

He said that of 61 protesters arrested, two posted bail at the Granite City Jail on Saturday, two posted bail at the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville on Saturday and 57 remained in the Madison County Jail Monday afternoon.

By 11 a.m. today, eight more protesters, for a total of 12, had posted bail, according to the Granite City Police Department.

Of those arrested, all were charged with criminal trespass or mob action or both. Both charges are Class A misdemeanors and usually carry a bail of $52 cash.

Many, in addition to refusing to give booking information, also refused to be fingerprinted, police sources said, resulting in approximately a dozen charges of obstructing justice.

One woman, identified as Jane Doe No. 50, was charged with battery for allegedly knocking to the ground an employee of Hope Clinic, Genevieve Haddix, 56, of Granite City.

Accounts of the incident differed. Karberg said the woman was only trying to dodge a soda thrown at her by a clinic employee.

But Clinic Director Susan Morton disputed that, saying no soda had been thrown. She said the arrested woman seemed to be in some kind of trance. There was a lot of room for the woman to walk around her. She chose to shove her instead."

Morton said the protests had no effect on the clinic's operations except that some patients were calling the clinic before coming, to ask what to do.

"We're getting our normal number of no-shows," Morton said. (See HOPE CLINIC, Page 8A)

Ex-resident crash victim

COLLINSVILLE — A former Granite City resident was killed and an Edwardsville girl seriously injured in a one-car crash on Illinois 157 early Sunday morning.

Eric S. Coulter, 18, of Glen Carbon was pronounced dead at the scene at 5:24 a.m. Sunday by Deputy Coroner Ed Allan. According to a spokesman for the Collinsville Police Department, reports said Coulter's auto left the road about one mile north of State Rd 35 at 2:56 a.m. and struck a utility pole.

Allan said that his reports indicate police were notified of the crash at 4:17 a.m. He added that the car had gone down an embankment and was not immediately visible from the road. This might explain the time discrepancy, Allan said.

"At 3 or 4 in the morning there's not a lot of traffic," Allan said. "It may have been that long before someone came along to spot the accident."

A passenger in Coulter's auto, Stephanie Hester, 15, of Edwardsville, suffered serious injuries and was initially taken to Anderson Hospital in Maryville.

Coulter was born in Granite City and was a June graduate of Granite City High School. An obituary appears on page 8A.

many years. An array of equipment to make extrications of persons from vehicles quicker and less traumatic for them is now at the disposal of Granite City Fire Department personnel. A new power unit, capable of powering three tools simultaneously, and three ram devices, a cutter and attachments were purchased for $8,300.

Fire chiefs' 'on fire' about future

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Fire Chief Charlie Bernaix and Assistant Fire Chief Bobby Bell recently went to Springfield for a visit.

They came back "on fire." The Springfield Fire Department is currently the only fire department, out of 1,500 rated in Illinois, with a Class I rating from the Insurance Services Office. It is one of only seven, out of 26,221, rated Class I nationwide.

Granite City is currently rated Class V, halfway down the 1-10 scale.

Bernaix and Bell, however, are all set to start climbing to Class I.

"They've just got a lot of great ideas, like about training, and have offered to help us in any way they can," Bernaix said.

Their director of public safety, Pat Ward, is full of enthusiasm and he got us full of enthusiasm just talking to him," Bell said. "He has offered to advise us, free of charge, just to help us get going."

Fourteen years ago, when Springfield had a commission for fire commissioner with the goal of obtaining a Class I rating, Springfield, at the time, had a Class IV.

"It's going to take time, take a number of years," Bernaix said. "This is not something that's going to happen overnight."

Bernaix and Bell said it will take a lot of time and money to achieve the top rating, but they estimate that even a change upward of one class could save residents of the city 5 to 10 percent on insurance costs.

Both said the department has already started in the right direction.

The department's new communication system is just about ready to go on line. It uses a repeater mounted at St. Elizabeth Medical Center to boost the signal and guarantee that all fire radios will be able to receive all transmissions.

The radio system being replaced is more than 20 years old and the firefighters have not always been able to talk with each other.

"In Hackensack, N.J., there were five firefighters inside a building who died. They died because, although a lot of people with scanners heard their call for help, the other firefighters at the building — the ones who could help them — didn't hear them," Bernaix said.

An expanded training program is another step the department is taking.

In Springfield, all training is broadcast to all 10 fire stations, using the public access channel on the cable television system. Bernaix and Bell said they soon plan to begin doing the same with Granite City's three stations.

"Springfield does scramble some things, like sensitive areas or arson investigations," Bell said. "But for the most part the public can tune in and watch the department in action."

Since becoming chief, Bernaix has had Belleville Area College pre-test every member of the department. He said nine members of the department have degrees in fire science and many others have taken a lot of courses.

"It's becoming a field where they have to have knowledge of a lot of things," Bell said.

"They have to know things like electricity, chemistry, hydraulics and building construction just to be a good firefighter."

Springfield has a video library with hundreds of training films, they said, and the Springfield department has offered to loan films to Granite City.

All new Granite City firefighters must also, within 36 months, become qualified as paramedics as well as, in the same period, becoming Level II Firefighters.

A number of laws are in process, they said, concerning the safety of firefighters; these laws will require even better training and equipment.

But the department can't get to Class I without community support. (See FIRE, Page 8A)

Dogcatcher gets beeper

Madison Humane Officer Dan Poston will be equipped with a beeper to better fulfill his duties. Mayor John Bellico said. The action came as the result of a dog-bite incident in which attempts to find Poston failed. An animal control officer from Nameoki Township had to be called by residents.

Hanke to head Public Works

Former 3rd Ward Alderman Brett Hanke was appointed director of Public Works by Mayor Von Deo Cruse last week. Hanke, engineer for the Sauget Sanitary Development and Research Association, was offered the job of city engineer while an alderman, but declined.

Dunk your favorite chief

Area residents can dunk their favorite police chief or fire chief Sept. 9 during the first annual Dunk the Chief Day, sponsored by the Pontoon Beach Police Benevolent Association, from noon to 7 p.m. at the Wade Rollins clubhouse on Revelle Lane. Tickets, at $10 each, are available from all Pontoon Beach police officers and dispatchers. Included in the price are a barbecue plate, "all the beer you can drink" and three free throws.

ONE THE HARD WAY: Granite City police officers were busy in recent days making arrests at the Hope Clinic for Women, site of large-scale anti-abortion demonstrations. This was the first man to be handcuffed and arrested, for both criminal trespass and mob action. He was quickly followed by more than 50 others. Related story is on Page 1A.

Prison sentence for possession

Travon Watt, 17, of the 200 block of Abbott St., Venice, was sentenced July 3 by Judge Edward C. Ferguson to one year in a state prison for unlawful possession of a controlled substance. In an April 19 incident, Watt was arrested by Venice police who had answered a call of a possible break-in at the Venice Garden apartments.

Watt said he had not broken into the apartment but that he was helping an aunt move. Watt was arrested on a warrant from the state's attorney's office for probation violation. When he was searched at the police station he possessed less than 15 grams of cocaine.

Probation for forgery

Gerald K. Stewart of the 2600 block of Oregon, St. Louis, was sentenced July 7 by Judge Ellar Duff-Williams to two years probation for forgery. In a June 24 incident, Stewart attempted to fill a forged prescription for Tylenol #4 at Walgreen's and then at Reese's Drug Store, 3214 Nameoki Road. Granite City police were looking for a suspect at Walgreen's when a pharmacist's call alerted them that Stewart was at Reese's.

Prison for purse grab

Jeffrey S. Means, 21, of the 1200 block of the Kirkpatrick Homes, was sentenced July 7 by Judge Ellar Duff-Williams to three years in a state prison for burglary. Means was arrested by Madison Police June 24 after a witness identified him as having removed a purse from a 1983 Buick Skyhawk parked in the 1100 block of State.

Be prepared to fight small fire properly

Having a home fire extinguisher could save your property and your life. The National Safety Council recommends choosing a Class ABC extinguisher, which is designed to put out most types of fires.

Keep your extinguisher in an easily accessible place and teach all family members to use it according to the manufacturer's directions. In most cases, the user is instructed to remove the pin, aim the nozzle at the base of the fire and squeeze the lever. Don't attempt to fight anything other than a very minor fire — instead, leave the building immediately and call the fire department.

Trespass, battery charged after residential incident

Tracy Lynn Endicott, 24, of the 1400 block of Third Street, Madison, was arrested at 1:55 a.m. July 21 and charged with battery and criminal trespass to a residence.

Tina M. Webb of the 2100 block of Lee Avenue alleged Endicott came to the house and began arguing with her and refused to leave. A fight ensued and Endicott allegedly grabbed Webb by the arms and shook her, dragged her outside and threw her to the ground, she said.

An officer noted that Webb had abrasions and bruises on both arms and was covered with mud.

Vehicle burglarized

Jodie D. Gray of the 2200 block of Lincoln Avenue reported July 20 that his 1979 Camaro was entered and three cassette tapes, a wallet and identification cards were stolen.

Checks cashed

Robert C. Coakley of the 2500 block of Lincoln Avenue reported July 20 that nine checks were taken from a checkbook during a burglary at the residence. The burglary occurred while he was working out of town, he said.

Several checks of varying amounts, ranging from $150 to $200, had been cashed between July 8 and July 12, Coakley said. A discrepancy in the signature on the checks alerted bank officials who informed Coakley, the report said.

Building damaged

Dave McFarland reported July 21 that an apartment building he owns in the 2200 block of Cleveland Boulevard was damaged by vandals who made three holes in the plaster walls and damaged the framework of a security door and a wooden apartment door.

Battery warrant served

A warrant alleging aggravated battery was served July 21 on Robert Michael Barnhart St., 41, of the 2100 block of Alexander Street, who was arrested at 18th and State streets.

Granite City

Shed burglary

A boy's light blue 20-inch Skyway Street Styler bicycle valued at $230 was taken in the burglary of a shed, located beneath the carport at the home of Patrick Jesse of the 2000 block of Manley Avenue, he reported July 19. The shed lock had been forced, the report said.

Man, 19, assaulted

Thomas S. Bladdick II, 19, of Collinsville reported he was beaten by a man near Wabash Avenue and Pontoon Road about 2 a.m. July 22. Bladdick, who came to the police department, had visible facial injuries, including swelling to the right side of the face and eye, a possible fracture to the nose and a laceration and swelling to the upper lip, a report noted. He went to St. Elizabeth Medical Center for treatment.

The victim said he and a friend, a Granite City man, left a party they'd attended near Wabash and Cottage avenues when a young man confronted them, accusing Bladdick and the Granite City man of blocking his vehicle or cutting him off with their car.

The suspect passed their car on Wabash and stopped at Amos Avenue, again confronting Bladdick. The man re-entered in his car, but got out again at Pontoon Road and while Bladdick was seated in his car used abusive language toward him. When Bladdick stepped out of his auto, the assailant struck the victim in face and head.

After the incident, Bladdick and his friend went to a cafe in Mitchell to meet other guests from the party. Two Madison County deputies at the restaurant were told of the assault.

The suspect arrived at the cafe soon afterward and Bladdick went to police headquarters to make a report.

Sport bike stolen

A Harrolem sport bicycle valued at $650 belonging to Anthony Dollar of the 400 block of McCann Bridge Avenue, Madison, was stolen from outside Reliable Stereo, 3671 Nameoki Road, he reported July 21. The black and chrome machine had white tires, he said.

Arrested on warrant

Robert L. Boyles, 18, of the 2400 block of East 23rd Street was arrested by Pontoon Beach police on a Granite City warrant alleging failure to appear for battery.

Drag racing alleged

Raymond Eugene English Jr., 18, of the 4700 block of Lake Drive, Pontoon Beach, was booked on a state charge of drag racing and speeding when arrested at 8:55 p.m. July 21.

An officer reported seeing two vehicles racing side by side at high speed traveling south on Nameoki Road near Edwards Street. The officer estimated their speed in excess of 65 mph when the vehicles pulled away from the squad car and turned south on Illinois 203.

The patrolman caught up with a 1975 Plymouth Roadrunner allegedly operated by English at a traffic signal light at 20th Street, but lost sight of the second car involved in the incident, he said.

Early pregnancy classes set

The Obstetrics Department of St. Elizabeth Medical Center is offering a free series of maternity classes, titled Early Pregnancy, for women less than six months pregnant.

The class will meet on two consecutive Mondays, Aug. 7 and 14, from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in the Pre-Natal Classroom on the second floor of SEMC's Going Strong Wellness Center, 2103 Iowa St., across from the medical center.

The Early Pregnancy classes will provide information on nutrition, exercise, breast conditioning, how a woman's body changes during pregnancy, and how the fetus develops.

Individuals interested in attending any of the classes offered through SEMC's Obstetrics Department may register by calling 785-3040.

RC&D area topic of forum

Three groups here are actively working for approval of a Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) Area in the seven-county area served by Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission.

They are the planning commission, the Madison County Soil and Water Conservation District and the Madison County Board. The purpose of the RC&D program is to accelerate the conservation, development and utilization of natural resources to improve the level of economic activity, and to enhance the environment and standard of living. Authorized areas are locally sponsored areas designated by the U.S. secretary of Agriculture for RC&D technical and financial assistance program funds.

To help assure that the local needs are identified, a meeting will be held to allow public comments on resource concerns relating to conservation and the quality of life.

The public is invited to an informational meeting Thursday, Aug. 3, at the USDA building on Old Alton Road in Edwardsville. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m.

For additional information, call 656-4710.

8th grade class reuniting

The eighth-grade graduating class of 1954 from Sacred Heart School in Granite City is going to hold a 35-year reunion Oct. 7.

Classmates are being sought. Those who can provide any information on the following members may call Pat McKee at 451-1516 or 798-3018: James Edmonds, Ramona Haxton, Sheri Schaefer, Ruth Schoeber, Bill Steima, Juanita Stevens, Douglas Vivod or Sheri Little.

Bereavement group to meet

Open to all the bereaved in the area, the People Needing People Bereavement Support Group, sponsored by Hospice of Madison County, a department of St. Elizabeth Medical Center, will meet Tuesday, Aug. 8, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Anderson Hospital in Maryville.

Mary Peach, RN, MSW, CSW, facilitator and founder of the support group, says, "It takes some people a few meetings to warm up. Then, they realize they aren't the only ones who have experienced a loss, and that everyone in the group really cares. They start to get a sense of hope from the group."

Belleville may be added to light rail

By Jason Moody
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — Legislation providing $70 million for a light rail system linking East St. Louis to Missouri and $450,000 for a feasibility study on extending the line to Belleville passed a House panel July 12.

The bill increases the likelihood that Belleville, rather than Edwardsville, Granite City or Alton, could be a future destination point for the Metro Link light rail, according to several sources.

The legislation, attached to a major spending bill approved by the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Transportation, would also come close to covering the estimated costs for the rail currently being built to connect downtown East St. Louis with several points in St. Louis County, including Lambert Airport.

The U.S. government has provided $150 million for the project since federal funding began in 1984 — $133 million short of the estimated total cost.

According to Les Sterman of the East/West Gateway Coordinating Council, the feasibility study will pay for a draft environmental impact statement for the Belleville branch.

This would certainly give the Belleville corridor a leg up against any other (future route), said Sterman.

East/West Gateway is near completion of its own study comparing the feasibility of routes to

Danger in fridges

Despite repeated warnings about the danger posed to children by abandoned refrigerators, about 10 youngsters per year suffocate in these appliances.

The National Safety Council urges you to completely remove the door of a refrigerator before discarding it. If you're storing a refrigerator for later use, chain and padlock the door closed, remove or disable the latch, or attach wooden blocks to the door to keep it from closing. Teach children to stay away from abandoned appliances, it says.

Alton, Granite City, Edwardsville and Belleville.

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, requested funding for the alternative analysis study and according to his press aide it will give the Belleville route a definite advantage for funding for a future rail extension.

"Plans to build a joint use facility at Scott Air Force Base make it a logical destination for the metro-line," said Brian Lott, Costello's press aide, referring to plans to use the base as a civilian airport.

Rep. Richard Durbin, who sponsored the legislation funding the next phase of the Metro Link project, had originally requested $85 million. However, both Costello and Durbin were pleased with the $70 million allotment, according to Lott.

"The light rail project is important to the future economy of the entire St. Louis metropolitan region on both sides of the river," said Durbin after the legislation was approved. "This funding would make sure this project stays on track."

According to East/West Gateway, the project, consisting of 18 route miles and 20 stations, is likely to be completed by 1993.

Edgar lauds Legislature for approving changes in licensing of seniors

Secretary of State Jim Edgar has praised the General Assembly for approving his initiative to change testing requirements for senior drivers seeking to renew their licenses.

"The Legislature has demonstrated once again that it places a premium on making our roads as safe as possible," Edgar said.

"I also appreciate the strong backing these measures received from senior citizen groups throughout the state. Their advice and assistance were valuable in developing and advancing this significant traffic safety legislation."

The House sent the proposal to the governor by a 116-1 vote. It earlier had been approved, 52-4, by the Senate.

Illinois law currently requires road tests for drivers 69 and older when they seek to renew their license. For those who pass, the license is valid for four years, whether the driver is 71 or 101.

The Edgar proposal would require tests every two years for those 61 through 86 and tests annually for drivers 87 and older.

Those in the 69-through-74 age range would no longer be routinely tested, and testing every four years for those in the 75-through-80 range would continue.

"Studies show that accident rates for those 69 through 74 compare very favorably with the rates for all drivers. There is no longer justification for routinely giving them road tests," Edgar said.

"But the studies also show that drivers become greater risks to themselves and others when they reach their 80s. For example, the fatal accident rate for drivers 87 and older is 20 times higher than the rate for all drivers."

Edgar stressed that his office will continue to help thousands of seniors annually prepare for license renewal tests through review courses conducted throughout the state.

"I know how important a driver's license can be to a senior who wants to be as independent as possible," Edgar said. "We want to do everything we can to preserve the dignity and mobility of seniors."

"But we believe that testing the oldest group of seniors more frequently will save many of them and others from potentially crippling or even fatal accidents."

Driver license renewal fees for those age 69 through 81 would remain at $5. Those age 81 through 86 would pay $2. There would be no charge for those 87 and older.

'Old-age assistance' part of SSI program

By Bill Hunot
Social Security Administration

Following are typical questions and answers received by the Social Security Administration office in East St. Louis.

Q. When I was younger I remember people talking about "old-age assistance." No one seems to know what this is anymore. Do you know?

A. Old age assistance was a program that the United States ran from 1936 to 1973. It supplemented small Social Security checks for needy people and provided income to people that were too old to work when Social Security started. Money for this program came from federal governments and states.

Until 1951 more people received old age assistance than Social Security.

In 1974 the federal government took over old age assistance and it became part of the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program.

Q. The social workers where I get my dialysis treatments told me that I am probably eligible for Medicare. I don't want Medicare because I don't want to pay the surtax. Do I have to sign up for Medicare?

A. You don't have to apply for Medicare. However, if you are eligible for Medicare, even if you never apply, you are liable for the surtax.

Most people who have a chronic kidney disease that requires dialysis or a transplant are eligible for Medicare. Anyone eligible for Medicare for more than six months in a year with taxable income must pay a supplemental premium with their income taxes. This is computed as a surtax and is $22.50 for every $100 of taxable income. The maximum additional tax this year is $800 per Medicare eligible person.

Even if you do not need or want Medicare you must pay the surtax. The only ways to avoid it are to live outside the United States or to have no taxable income.

Q. My sister needs to go into a mental hospital for a couple of months to have her medication adjusted. While she is there she has to keep up with rent or lose her apartment. Her only income is an SSI check. Will she lose it if she goes into the hospital?

A. When a person is hospitalized for a full calendar month they can lose their Supplemental Security Income (SSI) or have it reduced.

However, a recent change in the law may help your sister. Now, people that go into an institution for less than three months can have their full SSI continued. This allows them to maintain a home that they can return to after they are discharged. For more information about this provision call Social Security at 800-295-7272.

Q. Is there any way for blind people to get general information about Social Security's programs?

A. Blind people can borrow a recording that contains basic information about Social Security, Medicare and SSI. The recording is available by writing to the Volner Memorial Library for the Blind, P.O. Box 387, Jefferson City, Mo. 65102 or by calling 314-761-3615.

They can call or visit their local Social Security office, too.

Q. I have read that Social Security retirement benefits are not supposed to be the only income you have after retirement. But how much of my income will be replaced by Social Security when I retire?

A. On average your benefit will replace 42.1 percent of your average lifetime earnings. Contact Social Security for a dollar figure you can use for retirement planning.

Miller family gathers

Between 1904 and 1929 Albert and Mary (Yanda) Miller of Glen Carbon became the parents of 10 children, six girls and four boys, and the recent reunion of that family made for some interesting memories in Granite City.

Four of the Miller children, Kathryn Miller Arnette, Mae Miller Bernard, Albert H. Miller, and Thelma Miller Sues, have made their homes in Granite City, and the eldest Miller child, Lydia Miller Nelson, now resides in Greenville after being a 50-year resident of Granite City.

On June 23, 24 and 25, the Miller family gathered for a three-day reunion celebration.

On Friday evening, June 23, a welcoming reception was held at Wilson Park. The kickoff for the reunion was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Dale Arnette and Mr. and Mrs. David Douglas of Granite City and Mr. and Mrs. Steven Sues of Belleville. At this reception, Greg Miller of Madison, Wis., celebrated his birthday.

Saturday, June 24, was the official reunion day and was held at St. Cecilia Church in the Miller hometown of Glen Carbon. Many historical photographs, vintage clothing and other family memorabilia were on display, causing the telling and retelling of many old stories. In addition, many current photos were shared. Following a catered meal was a white elephant exchange.

Included in the day's events was the birthday celebration of Dale Arnette. Many activities, including outdoor games for the children, led by Roni and David Douglas, and a professional photography session highlighted the day. Later in the afternoon, a Miller biographical booklet was presented to everyone in attendance. The booklet was compiled by Steve Sues, and highlighted 50 family members.

The Miller Reunion concluded on Sunday, June 25, with a Farewell Party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sues, at St. John United Church of Christ in Granite City. Among the afternoon's activities were a 30-year slide show by Rich Sues, a balloon lift-off, and musical entertainment by Roni Douglas. In addition, Carol Miller Kinchen celebrated her birthday.

The following individuals and families were in attendance: Dale and Kathryn Arnette, Mae Bernard, David, Veronica, Emily and Josh Douglas, Al and Edna Miller, Scott Miller, and Richard and Thelma Sues of Granite City; Dr. Donna, Michael and Danny Bernard, St. Charles, Mo.; Carl and Nina Clover, and Gene, Tom, Amy, Tim, Adam, Rachel, and Jake Doll, Pocahontas; David, Carla, Laura, and Pat Hawthorne, Trenton; Ken, Sally, Cass, and Holly Hierman, East Alton; Stan and Carol Kinchen and daughters, Waxahachie, Texas; Elton and Alicia Miller and Eileen, Alex and Grace Waller, Tallahassee, Fla.; Greg and Chanda Miller, Madison, Wis.; John Miller, Wilmington, Del.; Ray and Ruth Miller and Mildred Taylor, Brighton, Co.; Ron and Debbie Miller and children, Mount Airy, Md.; Steve, Barb, Megan, and Chip Sues, Belleville; Edna Kay Wydra and Wally and Dorothy Wydra, Glen Carbon; and Bill, Bev and Laurie Wydra, Edwardsville.

Eta Chapter installs officer slate

The 1989-90 officers of Eta Chapter, Phi Tau Omega Sorority, were installed during a formal ceremony held at Cristo's in St. Louis on July 26. Outgoing President Georgiana Van Buskirk officiated and the installing marshal was Shirley Morgan.

The following members were installed: president, Mary Hassler; vice president, Jan Greathouse; recording secretary, Mary Evalyn Yenko; social secretary, Jane Haug; treasurer, Shirley Morgan; associate scribe, Dorothy Costello; historian, Debbie Geggus; and sergeant-at-arms, Eunice Hatcher.

The group presented the outgoing president with a gift. Preceding the installation, dinner was served to 14 members. Paper gavel served as place cards and each member present was presented with a heart-shaped wooden candle holder crafted by the outgoing president.

A short business meeting was held, with Van Buskirk, presiding. The Bank Night drawing was won by Dorothy Costello, and a 50-50 raffle was won by Hatcher.

Those attending in addition to the above were: Betty Krug, Mary Lou Richeson, Dolores Sheridan, Martha Ruth Thomas and Janis Wolfe.

Gourmet gadgetry luncheon planned

The Troy Christian Women's Club, serving Madison County, will feature "Gourmet Gadgetry" at its noon luncheon Aug. 8 at Randy's Restaurant in Troy. Carol Hess, from the Kitchen Conservatory, will demonstrate kitchen gadgets.

Music will be provided by Dolores Oberio, who is a soprano from Collinsville. Jan Brooks from Zion, Ill., will be the inspirational speaker.

A free nursery for the preschoolers will be provided at the Carol House Inn, next door to Randy's Restaurant. Reservations for the luncheon are essential and can be made by calling Wilona at 345-5555 or Beverly at 667-2259, by noon on Aug. 4.

How to submit your articles

Items for the organizations page, which includes both clubs and churches, may be directed to the Press-Record/Journal at 1815 Delmar Ave., Granite City, Ill. 62040. Photos of a reprintable quality also will be considered for publication.

Butterfly members meet for dessert

The Butterfly Club met for lunch at Josephine's in Godfrey and later went to Thelma Schmidt's house for dessert and an afternoon of pinocle.

Schmidt was honored for her July birthday. Prizes were awarded to Mary Lou Claussen, Hazel Rollins, Neil Talley and Harriet Hoff. Talley also received the Honor's Prize.

Other members present were: Lorraine McIlroy, Irene Willis, Juanita Rosenberg and Edith Ryan.

Talley will be host for the August meeting.

To submit items: The Press-Record/Journal welcomes Calendar items, especially those of local interest. Send items — printed or typewritten — to Calendar, Press-Record/Journal, 1815 Delmar Ave., Granite City, IL 62040. Accepted items are published free of charge.

Bi-State reports progress in transporting disabled

A dramatic increase in ridership by passengers with disabilities has taken place in the past year, according to the Bi-State Development Agency.

Bi-State Transit currently operates 228 buses with wheelchair lifts, of which 164 are serviceable. Another 60 lift-equipped buses will enter the fleet in August, bringing the total usable lifts to 224.

Forty percent of Bi-State's peak hour fleet will then be lift-equipped with serviceable lifts. Disabled persons ride for half price with a valid identification card.

Fifteen of Bi-State's 119 bus routes offer accessible service using lift-equipped buses. From July 1, 1988, through June 30, 1989, 1,383 wheelchair passenger trips were made on Bi-State buses, compared to a total of 260 trips in the previous fiscal year, a 431 percent increase.

The 60 new lift-equipped buses beginning service in August will provide accessible service on four more routes in Missouri and seven in Illinois. These new buses will be equipped to secure two wheelchairs at once. Older buses have only one securement position.

About 90 percent of wheelchair passengers on buses in Missouri go to downtown St. Louis, where accessible shopping centers such as Union Station and St. Louis Centre are attractions.

In Illinois, 60 percent of the wheelchair passengers on Bi-State buses travel between Alton, Edwardsville, Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and Granite City, with 40 percent destined for downtown St. Louis.

In Illinois, curb-to-curb van service is also available in all locations of Bi-State's service area, provided by the Madison County and St. Clair County transit districts.

The Agency for Community Transit (ACT) provides van service in Madison County and East St. Louis. In St. Clair County, areas other than East St. Louis are served by the Demand and Response Transportation System (DARTS).

For more information on Bi-State routes and schedules, Transit Information can be called weekdays from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. at 231-2345 in Missouri or 1-800-223-BUS in Illinois.

More state money aimed at fighting drug abuse

The new $113.6 million budget for the Illinois Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse will mean an unprecedented expansion of community-based services, according to William T. Atkins, director.

The majority of the increase is part of the Governor's Drug Free Illinois initiative to bolster prevention, treatment and enforcement activities throughout the state.

Specific activities to be financed include $2.7 million to help implement a comprehensive statewide substance abuse prevention system; $336,000 to go specifically toward prevention and education for women and youth; and $17 million for increasing treatment capacity.

This additional money will finance community-based programs that will provide inpatient and outpatient services to 6,000 Illinoisans who have an alcohol or drug abuse problem, including $2.2 million for the additional treatment of intravenous drug users.

Also, $400,000 has been allocated for research to develop a study for legally definable standards for "drugged driving."

The expansion of the drug treatment system will create as many as 550 new jobs for community programs in the state.

Welfare recipients to get increase

The new budget for the Illinois Department of Public Aid will include for the first time in four years a cost-of-living grant increase for welfare recipients.

According to Gov. James Thompson, the improved state economy has produced increased revenue needed to fund the increase. An estimated 89,000 people receiving General Assistance and 625,000 receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children will receive the 7.5 percent grant increase. Grants to welfare recipients have not increased since 1985. During that time, the Consumer Price Index has increased by almost percent.

The Department of Public Aid will receive $3.8 billion, an increase of $246 million. The money will meet increases to support homeless shelters, domestic violence shelters, long-term care providers, and hospitals serving large numbers of patients who are indigent or eligible for Medicaid.

Build Illinois funds to boost science

Gov. James Thompson has approved Build Illinois funding for the new fiscal year that will provide $28 million for science and technology research, $158.6 million for wastewater treatment grants to help communities comply with federal requirements, and $65 million to match federal funds to start a program of loans to local governments for wastewater treatment improvements.

Highlights of the Governor's Science and Technology initiative include $12.08 million for the construction of the Coordinated Science Lab and the Center for Supercomputing Research and Development at the University of Illinois in Urbana. Southern Illinois University at Carbondale will get $15.73 million for the planning and construction of the new Biological Sciences Building, which will contain a multidisciplinary research laboratory for the School of Medicine, the College of Science, and space for the Center for Electron Microscopy.

Bad student loans

Almost 10,000 Illinois guaranteed student loan accounts will be assigned to the federal government for collection under a new agreement between the U.S.

Homer seeks nomination for state treasurer as Democrat

State Rep. Thomas J. Homer, D-Canton, has announced he will seek the Democratic nomination for Illinois state treasurer.

At a series of press conferences in Springfield, Peoria and Chicago, Homer, 42, pledged to be an active and fiscally conservative treasurer.

"I intend to be a vigorous spokesman for fiscal responsibility and economic policy in Illinois," said Homer, an eight-year veteran of the Illinois House. "Illinois can no longer afford to waste tax dollars on programs that fail to provide jobs or economic opportunity for our business community."

Saying that the Illinois treasurer's office has become a national model for investment practices, Homer said he would seek out the latest in modern cash management techniques to

ISSC, the holder of the loans, said the assignment will affect borrowers who have never made a payment of their student loans or who have not made a payment in five years since defaulting on their loans.

"This number may seem high, but when you consider that over 637,000 people have utilized ISSC's guarantee during this same time period, the 10,000 defaulters represent only 1.6 percent of the total borrowers," said Larry Matzka, ISSC executive director.

Taylorville site

of new state prison

The selection of Taylorville as the site for a $23.5 million minimum-security prison will mean employment for about 300 people.

Other minimum-security prisons will be built at Rend Lake in Southern Illinois and in Robinson, Ill.

According to Michael P. Lane, director of the Department of Corrections, "We are in desperate need of these facilities. We are currently operating at more than 30 percent above capacity with more than 22,800 inmates jammed into a system designed for less than 17,500."

The Taylorville and Robinson prisons will house 600 inmates each in dormitory style housing, and should be completed within one year. Both will offer vocational as well as college academic programs.

Planned stadium

gets state help

Gov. James R. Thompson signed legislation July 26 to allow "quick-take" power to speed land acquisition for the planned construction of an indoor sports stadium on Chicago's West Side for the Chicago Bulls and Blackhawks.

"I applaud the efforts of Chicago Blackhawks Chairman Bill Wirtz to develop what is going to be the best indoor sports arena in the nation," Thompson said. "Although this is a private venture, it is not uncommon for the state to pitch in and assist with the infrastructure for a private development, and for the people of the area."

Majority of schools

have AIDS policy

A majority of Illinois schools have adopted policies governing the way students and employees with AIDS virus are managed, and many have developed policies covering all chronic infectious diseases, according to a survey conducted by the Illinois Association of School Boards for the Illinois Department of Public Health.

Of the 655 public and nonpublic schools responding to the survey, 74 percent have adopted a specific policy regarding AIDS, or a more general policy covering a range of communicable diseases. Seventy percent, or 459 of the schools have opted to develop rules covering all infectious diseases.

According to the survey, most school districts said infected students and employees would be allowed to remain in the classroom unless they presented a risk to other students or employees; the identity of the infected person would be protected; an alternative school setting would be provided should an infected student have to leave school; and an employee removed from the school setting would not lose pay or benefits.

Prehistoric society to be Mounds topic

Dr. Robert Hall, chairman of the Anthropology Department of the University of Illinois at Chicago, will discuss the complex social organization of the prehistoric Cahokia Mounds Mississippian Indian population at a 1:30 p.m. lecture Aug. 6 at the new Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site Interpretive Center near Collinsville.

Hall, who conducted archaeological excavations at the site in the 1960s and '70s, has studied the Cahokia Mounds society extensively.

Chicago Orchestra

to play at fair

The Chicago Symphony Orchestra will continue a popular tradition when it performs a concert at 8 p.m. Aug. 16 in the Grandstand at the Illinois State Fair in Springfield.

The concert will feature American music, including baritone

Ben Holt and soprano Geraldine McMillan in the George Gershwin classics "Porgy and Bess" and "An American in Paris"; marches by John Philip Sousa; and music by Scott Joplin.

DuQuoin State Fair

Herbert J. Bittick Sr., 88, of Potosi, Mo., formerly of Granite City, died suddenly at 6 p.m. Sunday, July 30, 1989, at his residence.

Mr. Bittick was born Sept. 23, 1900, in Bloomsdale, Mo., and lived in Granite City for 49 years before moving to Potosi in 1967. He retired in 1966 from the Commonwealth Plant of General Steel Industries and had been a member of St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

Preceding him in death were his wife, Lora (Lindner) Bittick, who died in 1979, and one son, Oliver Bittick.

Survivors include two sons, Herbert L. Bittick Jr. and Norman Bittick, both of Granite City; two brothers, two sisters, seven grandchildren, 17 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Visitation will be after 5 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 1, at Werner Chapel for Funerals, 3829 Lake Drive, Pontoon Beach, where funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. today (Wednesday). Burial will be in St. John Cemetery in Granite City.

Masses are preferred for memorials.

Chesley

Antonette M. (Pusateri) Chesley, 72, of Fairmont City died at 1:18 p.m. Saturday, July 29, 1989, at Four Fountains Convalescent Center in Belleville where she had been a resident for two months.

Born Jan. 12, 1917, in East St. Louis, Mrs. Chesley had retired from the May Department Stores in St. Louis where she had worked as a personnel manager for 20 years.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Andrew S. Chesley, in August 1967. She was also preceded in death by a daughter, Mary, and a brother and sister.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Larry (Andrea) Martin of O'Fallon and Mrs. Tim (Cathy) Dinan of Belleville; four sisters including Mrs. Frank (Josephine) Batts of Granite City; and two grandchildren.

Visitation was held Monday at Kasky Colonial Mortuary, Fairview Heights. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at Holy Rosary Church in Fairmont City by the Rev. Jim Boerstler. Burial was in Mount Carmel Cemetery in Belleville.

Memorials to Holy Rosary Church, 2714 S. 42nd St., Fairmont City, Ill. 62201, have been suggested.

Seymour

Neil Seymour, 34, of San Francisco, Calif., died at his home on Wednesday, July 26, 1989, after a brief illness.

Mr. Seymour was born March 14, 1955, in St. Louis and lived in Granite City for many years, graduating from Granite City High School in 1973. He received a degree in music therapy from Michigan State University and a master of arts degree from the University of California at San Francisco.

He was a music therapist at Napa State Hospital and Langley Porter Psychiatric Institute at the University of California. He also had a private psychotherapy practice in San Francisco and was of the Methodist faith.

Preceding him in death was his father, Lloyd Seymour, in 1986.

Survivors include his mother, Ruth Seymour of Granite City; one sister, Janice Burk of Jackson, Mo.; two nephews and one cousin.

Funeral services were held July 29 in San Francisco, and his remains were cremated. The family suggests memorials to Hospice of Madison County, Granite City.

involvement, Bernaia and Bell said. The department has a plan for fighting fires at all major structures, they said, that includes the location of hazardous materials and other problem areas, such as major electrical connections.

"What we would like is to start using a plaque system," Bernaia said. "That way when we get there, there would be a plaque saying hazardous materials are located here, or things that could explode are there."

Another thing businesses need, according to Bernaia and Bell, is an evacuation plan with a meeting area outside the building, so the business can account for all its people.

"When the captain gets to a fire he sizes up the situation," Bernaia said. "If there is someone inside, that comes first."

"The fire is not fought until it is established that all the people are out and safe. So if the people can be accounted for right away, we can go right to the building."

said, which she estimated at about one-third.

Selph said that, in addition to the day shift Saturday, the department called out the entire evening shift and called in members of the night shift who were on their day off on Saturday.

Also, he said, there were three sheriff deputies and two state police officers at the scene.

The Hope Clinic has been the scene of protests and arrests since January 1978, when Father Edwin Arensen of Adelleville, Ill., formerly of Madison, was arrested. Saturday's was the largest crowd ever. Arensen was reportedly among those arrested.

Because of the number of arrests, processing was done in a holding area set up at the main fire station, adjacent to the police station.

"We had a plan and I think the plan worked well," Selph said. "I am really proud of our guys, and I'm not just saying that for the public. They refrained from personal involvement and were very professional all down the line."

Capt. Kip Pomeroy said the idea of charging the protesters with obstructing justice in the department's planning. He said it was based on the definition in the statute, of two or more people acting together to commit an unlawful act.

"In planning, we researched the law in many aspects concerning the past protests and mob rule was one of the charges we felt was a viable charge," Pomeroy said.

Arts Council adds device for deaf

The Illinois Arts Council has acquired a telecommunications device for the deaf to enable staff members to effectively communicate with individuals who have hearing impairments that prevent them from using a conventional telephone system.

The machine consists of a keyboard, similar to a typewriter, on which the sender can enter his message. On the receiving end, a printer records the message on a paper tape, which is then read by the staff members. Those who wish to use the system should call (312) 917-4631.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Clemens of Granite City, Amy Nicole, 8 pounds-even at birth July 16, 1989.

Both the city and state have laws requiring smoke detectors. Bernaia said, and Fire-fighters Local 253 has smoke alarms available for purchase at cost, currently $6 each.

"Smoke detectors save lives," Bell said. "You can't count how many lives they've saved."

"We felt the assembly held under the definition, two or more in an unlawful act, so the people were charged accordingly."

Selph said the incident and the department's actions will be reviewed by State's Attorney William Haine and any recommendations from that office will be included in the department's future actions.

"But I am very happy with the way our department handled it," he said.

Isaacs said he felt that clergymen should be picketing the clinic. "I think it's an indictment of the churches in Granite City," Isaacs said.

Karberg said abortions were a sign of the "moral relativism" she saw rampant in America today. "Everybody do your own thing — we don't like that," she said.

"We will continue to place our bodies in the way to save lives," she said.

Director Morton said she feared that Illinois might pass an anti-abortion law. "We are dealing with representatives that are anti-choice. Our job is to vote into office representatives that will represent all the people, not just a small minority," he said.

Morton said the choice of whether or not to have an abortion is a privacy issue. If it is taken away, other private rights could also be taken away, she said.

"Any time the fundamental right to privacy is tampered with, it could be a very dangerous thing for all the people," Morton said.

Youth group recognizes 9 students from Quad-Cities

Nine local students are among those to be honored in the Greater Belleville Area Youth Leadership Salute.

More than 90 juniors from 17 area high schools are involved in this year's salute. The purposes of the program are to recognize outstanding youth leaders, inform their communities of the positive contributions they are making, and provide training in developing additional leadership skills.

On Aug. 23, a "Winner's Seminar" will be presented to the students at Belleville Area College by Carole Harder, a professional speaker and author. The evening of Aug. 3 will conclude the two-day activities with an awards ceremony. During that time, the two most outstanding youth leaders will receive awards to attend the national "Town Meeting on Tomorrow" to be held at Washington University in October.

The Youth Leadership Salute is sponsored locally by Belleville Area College, Magna Bank, Cedarleaf Photography and the Belleville Journal.

Local students, with a brief biography of each, to be honored include:

•Matthew J. Cook: Matthew is active in varsity basketball and soccer, the audio visual club, the science club and the Foreign Policy club, and is a National Honor Society member and office worker.

He is a member of Third Baptist Church, where he is active in the youth group and Sunday school. Matthew is also active with the Madison County Teen Leadership Council. The son of Don and Betty Cook, Matthew plans to become a lawyer.

•Kerin Dippel: Kerin is active in the Empathy Peer Leadership group, varsity tennis, math team, and in the marching band as a section leader. She belongs to Namooki United Methodist Church, where she is president of the youth group, serves with the District Youth Council on Ministries and is active with the Adult Bell Choir.

Kerin's future plans include attending DePauw University in Indiana and hopes to major in political science to become a lawyer or journalist. She is the daughter of Robert and Jennifer Dippel.

•Kelly Kay Kessler: Kelly is active in varsity soccer, school plays (both the cast and technical crew), the National Forensic League, International Thespians Society, junior varsity volleyball and science club.

She is president of the speech and theater club. The daughter of Monte and Donna Kessler, Kelly would like to pursue a career in theater.

•Catherine Elaine Senderling: Catherine is active in the Empathy group, the scholar quiz team and varsity tennis. She is news editor of the High World school newspaper, vice president of the science club, and treasurer of the Quill and Scroll chapter.

She is a member of St. John United Church of Christ and active in its youth group. Catherine is also a member of SADD and the Madison County Teen Leadership Conference. The daughter of David and Jackie Senderling, she would like to work in Great Britain as the editor of a newspaper or magazine.

•Bret Ware: Bret is active in varsity track and basketball, the Empathy group, and the National Honor Society.

Bret will be Student Council president during his senior year, 1989-90. He has also been active in the Inroads Internship Program and the Madison County Teen Leadership Conference. The son of Marvin and Janice Ware, Bret plans to major in business at McKendree College in Lebanon.

•Tammi Lynn Wickham: Tammi is active in the science club, the Empathy group, the Red Peppers and varsity soccer, basketball and cheerleading. She has also served as vice president of the Student Council.

BEAT FLEAS!

In just thirty days ten fleas can multiply to a quarter of a million. No wonder we can have so much trouble keeping them off our pets. Everyone knows the discomfort they can cause. Some pets even become allergic to the flea saliva, causing severe itching and loss of hair just above the tail and down the back legs. Fleas can also carry tapeworms.

Fleas are more difficult to control than a few years ago due to increasing numbers and developing resistance to insecticides. The single product can control fleas during all a stage of its life. Your veterinarian can help you eliminate fleas. He has new treatments that actually break the life cycle of the flea on your pet and in your home and can treat your pet for any skin irritation from the flea.

Here is a program we endorse to eliminate a heavy infestation:

1. TREAT THE PET with dip once weekly or spray on powder twice treatments are more often as directed by your veterinarian.
2. TREAT INDOORS with premix spray or fogger after thorough vacuuming (throw vacuum bag away). Repeat this step twice at 2 week intervals, then every 2 months.
3. TREAT OUTDOORS with Dursban, Dieldrin or other recommended insecticides. Repeat once in 2 weeks, then monthly.

For less severe problems convenient tablets or topical insect treatments are available. See your local veterinary clinic for excellent flea control products designed for eliminating these irritating pests from your cherished pet.

Thomas Johnson
Petty Officer 3rd Class Thomas A. Johnson, a 1988 graduate of Granite City High School, has been promoted to his present rank while serving with the U.S. Navy at Orlando, Fla., where he is receiving instruction in nuclear electronics.

He is the son of Carlene S. Johnson, who resided in the 2000 block of Grand Avenue before recently moving to Cahokia, and Tom Johnson of Cahokia.

Johnson joined the Navy in October 1988 and completed recruit training at the Recruit Training Command in Orlando, studying seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. He earned three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

Kathryn Skaer
Airman 1st Class Kathryn C. Skaer, daughter of Wesley A. Anderson of Madison and Margaret L. Anderson of Edwardsville, has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

The airman, a 1986 graduate of Edwardsville High School, was a basic training honor graduate. She also earned credits in the training toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

During the six weeks at Lackland AFB, Skaer studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

Her husband, Airman Keith L. Skaer, is the son of Betty and Lyle Skaer of Glen Carbon.

The vessel is homeported in Norfolk, Va.

During the exercise, conducted in the Mediterranean Sea, Brooks took part in naval warfare exercises, power projection and amphibious training.

The U.S. Sixth Fleet (Atlantic Ocean) ships and aircraft participated with forces from Italy, the Netherlands, Turkey, France, Spain and the United Kingdom.

Exercise Dragon Hammer is a major NATO exercise designed to help improve combat readiness, enhance management capability and demonstrate allied preparedness through close cooperation among the southern region conventional forces, authorities said.

Brooks is a 1986 graduate of Granite City Senior High School. He joined the Navy in September 1986.

Edward LaRue
Marine Cpl. Edward L. LaRue, son of Georgia and Edward L. LaRue Sr. of 4 Violet Ave., Pontoon Beach, recently received a Letter of Appreciation.

The citation was in recognition of LaRue's outstanding performance while stationed with the 2nd Force Service Support Group at Camp Lejeune, N.C.

LaRue is a 1982 graduate of Granite City High School North. He joined the Marine Corps in March 1983.

John Decker
Staff Sgt. John N. Decker recently participated in the Strategic Air Command exercise, "Global Shield '89."

The exercise tested the readiness of SAC unit around the world, as well as the Air Force reserve and Air National Guard units, to carry out order which supports the United States national policy.

Decker is the son of Joseph H. and Willie M. Decker of 1720 State

St. He is a 1978 graduate of Granite City High School.

The sergeant is a maintenance scheduling specialist with the 384th Munitions Maintenance Squadron at McConnell Air Force Base in Kansas.

Jarvis Johnson
Army Sgt. Jarvis R. Johnson, son of Eddie S. Jones of 1125 Market St., Venice, has arrived for duty with the 8th U.S. Army Field Artillery Detachment in the Netherlands.

Johnson, a missile crewmember, is a 1982 graduate of Madison Senior High School.

Five-run inning kills Optimists in quarterfinals

By Mike Kelly

GRANITE CITY — Never hit your peak too soon. The next step is always downward.

That was the case on Sunday for the Optimists. Coming off their best performance of the year on Tuesday against Jerseyville, Granite City was flat as a pancake, losing to Greenville 9-4 at Varsity Field in the District 22 Junior Legion quarterfinals.

Greenville broke a 4-4 tie with five runs in the bottom of the fifth against Dave Boley, who was the loser in relief. The loss ended the Optimists' season at 15-11 while Greenville moved on to defeat Alton 10-9 in Sunday night's semifinals. Greenville will face Belleville (21-2) in Thursday's championship game at Varsity Field.

It was a sad way to end the season, especially considering the wave of momentum the Optimists were riding, to go along with the fact they were hosting the league tournament.

"We were kind of flat today and made some mistakes against a good ball club," said Granite City coach Carl Benson. "We only made four hits and just couldn't make a lot of things happen offensively."

Manager Paul Kacera just thought his team got outplayed.

"I don't really think we were that flat," he said. "Let's give a little credit to Greenville. They're a solid ball club and just killed us with their hitting when the game was on the line."

After taking a brief 2-0 lead in the second inning on starting pitcher Mike Nordstrom's two-run homer, the Optimists simply fell apart. A backbreaker came in the fifth.

Trailing 4-2, the Optimists scored a pair of runs in the top of the frame to tie it at 4-4. A pair of walks, a hit batsman, a single and a wild pitch fueled the two-run rally. But the hope of victory was short-lived when the roof came crashing down in the bottom half of the inning.

Boley came on in relief of Nordstrom, but Greenville sent ten men to the plate and scored five times. Boley (6-2) came in with a 1.64 ERA, but Sunday wasn't his day.

The inning began with a fly ball to right off the bat of Ben Johnson that should have been caught. Tony Sternberg got a good jump on the ball, but failed to make the catch and was charged with a two-base error. Johnson scored one out later on Chris Bandy's single against a drawn-in infield. Greenville had the lead for good, but still wasn't finished.

A two-run triple by Chad Kraft and an infield single by Nate Metzger, which scored winning pitcher Doug Duncan — who had tripped before him — gave Greenville a commanding 9-4 lead.

"They've got some good hitters," said Benson. "We know they could stick the ball, but the last time we played them (a 4-3 Granite City win on June 18) they really didn't show us that pushup for Summersport, which

Paddlers divers 2nd to Summersport again

By Dave Whaley

Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Summersport's diving victory over Paddlers on July 28 was no mirage. The divers from Godfrey did it again Saturday, edging out Paddlers by three points (45-42) to win the SWISA diving championships at the Paddlers pool. It was the second straight championship for Summersport, which edged Paddlers 52-50 last year in Godfrey. Paddlers had won five straight years before 1988.

"I don't know if I expected them to come as close as they did," Paddlers coach Gail McCormick said of her team. "I thought the competition in the older boys group would be closer, but Ron Selph and Jim Shepard just dominated there."

Selph rolled to first place in the 15-18 boys division with 230.9 points while Shepard was right behind with 217.55. Brooke Bjorkman took Paddlers only other first-place medal in the 13-14 girls division with 172.6 points.

"Neither of those were a surprise," said McCormick. "Ron just ran away with first place. He hit on all of his dives and was just outstanding. And Brooke has been a solid performer all year."

Outside of Shepard, Paddlers did not have a second place. They got four third-place medals (Kevin Harris, Amy Kraus, Jeremy Weaver and Julie Gocian). The top three finishers in each age group received medals. Fourth through sixth received ribbons.

Miners get split in HR festival

WATERLOO — The home run contest at last week's Mon-Clair League All-Star Game was matched Saturday.

The Miners and the Waterloo Buds combined for 14 home runs, 53 runs and 47 hits in a split double-header.

The Miners survived the first game 10-9 before the Buds outlasted Granite City 18-16 in the nightcap.

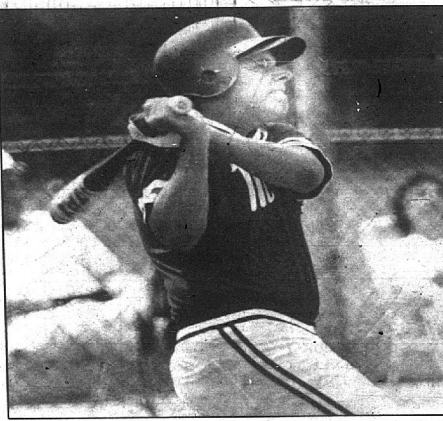

The games were makeup of the July 23 double-header. Although it was a home date for the Miners, the games were played in Waterloo due to the Junior Legion playoffs at Varsity Field.

Sunday's double-header against Millstadt was rained out and will be made up Saturday. Time and site will be announced in Thursday's Free-Record.

The Miners are now 9-11 in Mon-Clair play and hang onto the eighth and final playoff spot, two games ahead of East St. Louis and Millstadt. Granite City is two games behind second-place Edwardsville (12-10) in the Madison Division. The Traders swept East St. Louis on Sunday.

A rundown of Saturday's big hitters reads almost like the entire rosters. Waterloo shortstop Mike Roy had four home runs, three in the second game. Roy and Scott Thies had solo home runs in the top of the sev-

Post 199 cruises to 5th Division title

By Bill Morton

EDWARDSVILLE — Look out Arlington Heights, here comes Edwardsville.

Post 199 qualified for this week's state American Legion tournament by winning three consecutive games to take the Fifth Division title at Hoppe Park. They finished it with a 2-0 win over Centralia on Sunday.

"It's a great feeling, heading for state," Post 199 coach Ken Schaake said. "These kids deserve to be going to state. They have strived for this all season."

Edwardsville, 26-5, will meet the First Division champion (Chicago area) Thursday at noon in Arlington Heights.

After blanking Harrisburg 4-0 on Thursday, Post 199 waited out a day of rain Friday before lose two games or until you win the whole thing.

"We played 27 innings of solid baseball. We didn't have the leading hitter in this tournament (Alton's Tony Stocklin, .553) or the most valuable player (Centralia pitcher Kirk Rueter) but we came away with the first-place trophy. To me, that means that you've gotten a great team effort."

Using its potent offense, Post 199 made it look easy over the weekend, scoring a total of 24 runs in the three games. Edwardsville also got a little bit of revenge in the process.

Post 199 defeated arch-rival Harrisburg 4-0 in the first game of the tournament on Friday.

Harrisburg, comprised of mostly players from the Class AA state baseball champions, beat Edwardsville High School in the sectional championship game at Granite City.

"I knew the kids really wanted to play well against Harrisburg," Schaake said. "They knew that the game game meant more to them than just a victory."

Post 199 pitcher Tom Price went the distance, throwing a four-hitter. The win raised Price's legion record to 9-0 and his total pitching mark this season, including high school, to 20-0.

"He's a great competitor," Schaake said of Price. "He wanted the ball. He knew he could get the job done for us and he did."

Saturday, Adam Lynn went the distance when Post 199 defeated Centralia for the first time. Lynn struck out 10 and got more than enough offensive support.

Baseball labor problems lurking

Most baseball people were aware that the trading deadline passed Monday night. But another, important deadline for baseball looms in the not-too-distant future.

The current basic agreement between the players and the owners expires Dec. 31, and it looks as if those negotiations are going to be long and bitter.

It is believed the owners' initial proposal will ask for a salary cap, similar to the cap in the National Basketball Association, and a form of salary structure for younger players. Neither of these ideas is likely to go over well with the players.

If the owners are adamant about the issues, especially the salary scale, a strike is likely, said Danny Cox, the Cardinals' player representative.

"That's like kicking sand in my face and then stepping on my face," he said. "No one's going to go for that."

Cox will be watching the negotiations carefully not only as a player rep, but because he has had to sit out all this year after arm surgery. A strike would cost him more time in his attempted comeback.

"If we don't play next year I will have missed 2½ years," he said. "But if it comes down to an issue that we can't accept, I'm all for it. If I have to sacrifice a year of baseball and in the long run it's worth it, I'll do it."

Cox is hopeful, however, that it will not reach that point. He wants negotiations to begin immediately, instead of waiting until after the World Series, so there is a better chance of reaching a settlement.

"Strike is a bad word," Cox said. "I hope it doesn't come down to that."

The latest injury to Willie McGee, a pulled left hamstring, basically killed any chance the Cardinals had of trading for a front-line starting pitcher before Monday's trading deadline. They would have parted with either McGee or Vince Coleman in the right deal, but now can't afford to trade an outfielder.

The Cardinals inquired about Twins' lefthander Frank Viola, but found out Minnesota wanted the same thing the Seattle Mariners earlier wanted for Mark Langston — three young pitchers. It's something the Cardinals simply don't have to trade.

On Baseball

By Rob Rains

When Cardinal management mentioned other possible names, the Twins said no thanks because they only wanted pitching. There also was talk between the Cardinals and Detroit Tigers about Frank Tanana, but nothing developed.

The Cardinals would like to deal for one of Kansas City's starters, either Bret Saberhagen or Mark Gubicza, and have talked with the Royals, but it doesn't appear that will happen either.

The hottest rumor before the trading deadline was a Tony Pena-for-Pete Incauagilia deal with Texas, but the existence of that deal was denied in both cities.

While they have not placed an untouchable stamp on Louisville catcher Todd Zelle, the Cardinals basically have said they will not trade him. They would much rather move Pena. But despite the fact Atlanta, Boston and Texas are shopping very hard for a catcher, the Cardinals have not found any interest in Pena so far.

General Manager Dal Maxvill said no decision has been made on whether the Cardinals will re-sign Pena, but indications are that if he isn't traded, he will be allowed to become a free agent. The team then would use the $1 million-plus from Pena's salary to try to sign a free-agent pitcher.

Trades still can be made, but only if teams have waivers on the players involved.

How decimated have the Cincinnati Reds been by injuries this year? Seven of the players in their opening-day starting lineup have been on the disabled list. They are Barry Larkin, Chris Sabo, Eric Davis, Kai Daniels, Ron Oester, Paul O'Neill and Danny Jackson. The only two who haven't been hurt are Todd Benzinger and Jeff Reed. Reed was playing only because regular catcher Bo Diaz already was on the DL. From June 29 through Thursday, the Giants' Jeff Brantley won six games by himself, the Reds five.

The Cardinals have promoted lefthanded pitcher Mike Milchin, their second-round pick in the June draft, from Hamilton to Springfield, Ill. Other trade rumors had the Toronto Blue Jays talking to the Houston Astros about sending George Bell and Manny Lee to the Astros for Gerald Young and another player; Detroit offering Doyle Alexander for a young pitcher or position player, and the Pittsburgh Pirates looking for a third baseman. The Tigers reportedly turned down the San Diego Padres' offer of Sandy Alomar Jr. and two other players for Alan Trammell. The Milwaukee Brewers are down on catcher B.J. Surhoff, who hasn't been hitting and has been playing poorly defensively. Mike Morgan has been dropped from the Los Angeles Dodgers' rotation and replaced by rookie John Wettend. The Boston Red Sox are last in the American League in homers and, if they are there at the end of the season, it will be the first time they have finished last in homers since 1934. A broken hand may keep Seattle Mariners rookie Ken Griffey Jr. out until September and could cost him the AL Rookie of the Year award.

Ex-Cardinal of the Week: Ken Oberkell, Giants. Oberkell has proved to be a valuable reserve for the Giants and went 6 for 8 in the two games he started this week.

3 enroll at ITT

Three Granite City residents have enrolled in training courses at ITT Technical Institute in St. Louis.

Dennis Boyer, a June graduate of Granite City High School, and Todd Carter recently began the electronics engineering technology program. The 96-week session will prepare Boyer and Carter for an entry-level position in the electronics field.

Jeffrey White, a 1988 graduate of Granite City High School, recently began the automotive/diesel technology program. The 96-week session will prepare White for an entry-level position in the automotive field.

ITT Educational Service, a subsidiary of ITT Corporation, is a post-secondary network of community-based schools located throughout the country.

SIUC announces spring deans' list

More than 3,000 undergraduates were posted to the spring semester academic deans' list at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale.

Deans' list students must have grade point averages that meet or exceed performance standards set by SIUC's various colleges, ranging from 3.35 to 3.75 on a 4.0 scale.

Seven students from Granite City were named on the list (asterisk indicates straight "A" grades.) They were: Amy Adelsberger*, Joseph B. Boyd, Derek C. Davis, John M. Kirkpatrick*, Jennifer L. Kuller*, Lori D. Mills* and Carla L. Yager*.

Briggs' program gets achievement award

Regional Superintendent of Schools Harry A. Briggs Jr. has announced that the Madison County Occupant Protection/Alcohol Public Information/Education Program administered by his office has won an Achievement Award from the National Association of Counties.

The program was cited by the association as an "innovative solution" towards reducing the number of automobile-related fatalities among Madison County's citizens, particularly among youth. Funding is provided by a grant from the Illinois Department of Transportation.

The project, now in its second year, is implemented by contractual agreement with Plasa Health Care, a not-for-profit agency providing a broad base of prevention services in the county. Jean Schram, director of prevention services for Plasa and Lisa Wood, project coordinator, provide leadership in realizing the objective of the program.

Briggs, administrator of the program, was recognized for his ingenuity and creativity in establishing the program. During the first year of project operation more than 600 presentations on seat-belt usage and drinking and driving were made to schools, fire and police departments, senior citizen centers, colleges, universities, pre-schools, community groups, educational meetings, corporations and businesses. Survey results after the first year, reflected a 15 percent increase in seat-belt use by Madison County adults.

POISON IVY/OAK

PREVENTION INFORMATION

STOP THE ITCH BEFORE IT STARTS BY USING THESE SIX SIMPLE STEPS:

1. RECOGNIZE THE TROUBLEMAKERS

Both have the characteristic triple leaf pattern. Poison ivy usually grows less than a foot high. Poison oak can be a shrub growing up to 10 feet tall.

2. AVOID DIRECT CONTACT

Leaves, roots, stalks contain a heavy oil, Urushiol, that irritates when it touches your skin.

3. AVOID INDIRECT CONTACT

Clothes, shoes, tools, equipment and animals can carry the oil for several months.

4. DRESS SMART

Protect your arms, wrists, hands, ankles, face and eyes. Wear a sweatband or bandana to absorb sweat. Do not spread the oil from gloves, sleeves, or hands by wiping sweat off your face.

5. ACT SMART

Wash affected skin as soon as possible with lots of cold running water. Avoid soap or solvents until all oil is removed. Wash out of doors clothes often.

6. BE SMART

Think ahead. Protect yourself with IVY SHIELD. IVY SHIELD is an odor free skin cream used before contact with the irritating oils of the poison ivy or oak plants. It forms a barrier to prevent the itch.

'Ollie North' restrictions voted, 57-42

By Edward T. Hearn
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — Here are the votes of senators and representatives on major legislation in Congress in late July. A "Y" means the member voted for the measure; an "N" means the member voted against the measure; an "A" means the member did not vote.

SENATE VOTES:

1) "OLLIE NORTH" RESTRICTIONS ON FUND DIVERSIONS
The Senate approved, 57-42, a measure prohibiting the diversion or solicitation of funds for individuals, groups, or countries to which Congress has cut off aid. The amendment was attached to a $4.7 billion State Department authorization bill still under consideration. (HR 1487)

ILLINOIS:
Dixon (D)-Y
Simon (D)-Y
2) PROHIBITION OF CONTACT WITH GENERAL NORIEGA

The Senate rejected, 37-62, a measure that would have prohibited all U.S. contact with Panamanian strongman Manuel Noriega, except in order to arrest him on drug charges. (HR 1478)

ILLINOIS:
Dixon (D)-N
Simon (D)-N
3) RESTRICTIONS ON CONTACT WITH PLO

The Senate rejected, 23-75, an amendment that would have prohibited face to face dialogue with the Palestine Liberation Organization by agents of the U.S. government. Proponents argued that the Bush Administration should not talk with an organization linked to terrorism against the U.S. (HR 1476)

ILLINOIS:
Dixon (D)-against
Simon (D)-against
4) ASSISTANCE TO CAMBODIAN ANTI-COMMUNIST FORCES

The Senate approved, 59-39, an amendment allowing the president to provide foreign military and economic assistance to non-Communist resistance efforts in Cambodia. (HR 1478)

ILLINOIS:
Dixon (D)-Y
Simon (D)-N
HOUSE VOTES:

1) AGRICULTURE APPROPRIATIONS
The House approved, 394-26, $4.21 billion for fiscal year 1990 agricultural programs. Total spending on the bill was less than spending on the previous agricultural appropriation due to higher market prices for crops. Also, the Agriculture Department now provides farmers with lower price and income supports. (HR 2283)

ILLINOIS:
Costello (D)-Y
Dunbar (D)-Y
Poshard (D)-Y
2) HAZARDOUS WASTE COMPLIANCE

The House approved, 380-39, a measure forcing the federal government to comply with the hazardous waste laws that currently govern private industry (HR 1056)

ILLINOIS:
Costello (D)-Y
Dunbar (D)-Y
Poshard (D)-Y
3) TRANSFER OF FUNDS FROM SPACE STATION TO SOCIAL PROGRAMS

The House rejected, 125-291, an amendment that would have transferred $714 million from a planned NASA space station to other programs, including medical care for veterans, environmental programs, subsidies for low-income housing and other services for the elderly. (HR 2918)

Mike and Mechanics to come to State Fair

State Fair favorites Alabama, the Chicago Symphony and Ricky Van Shelton join new additions Mike and the Mechanics, Michael Damian and The Judds in this year's Grandstand line-up.

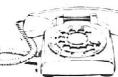

"This year promises something for everyone," Gov. James Thompson said. "The State Fair (Aug. 10-20) will feature a good combination of rock and country acts. It will have something new for children when Jim Varney appears free of charge as 'Ernest Comes to the Fair,' at 1 p.m. opening day. And we will kick off our Grandstand line-up with a tractor pull Thursday night so that people who can't attend during the day can enjoy a tractor pull."

Tickets may be purchased at the Grandstand Ticket Office or ordered by mail from the Illinois State Fair Ticket Office, P.O. Box 576, Springfield, Ill. 62705. Checks or money orders should be made payable to the Illinois Department of Agriculture. Tickets also may be purchased at all Ticketmaster outlets.

Deli Dishes Delight Diners In Summer

By Lynn Venhaus
Journal Staff Writer

When it's too hot to cook but you're tired of carry-out burgers and pizza, try keeping your cool in the kitchen by serving a deli spread.

With more than 71 percent of all U.S. supermarkets now offering full-service delicatessens, a quick trip to the store will supply all the fixings for a fresh deli feast. By buying small quantities of meats and cheeses, you can provide enough variety to satisfy your picky eaters, too.

Those with special dietary concerns can use turkey breast if they're watching cholesterol and fat content. Lorraine cheese has less sodium and cholesterol than many other cheeses. Specialty breads, particularly those of wheat, bran, rye or pumpernickel, will provide fiber.

To round out your sandwich meal, you can pick up deli side dishes: cole slaw, pasta salad, potato salad or fruit salad. For a homemade touch, make a salad or cut up veggies for a relish tray the night before. For those who prefer main-dish salads to hearty sandwiches, we've included a few recipes, complete with homemade salad dressing directions.

Be sure to arrange the spread attractively. The colorful array of foods from the deli will have definite eye appeal for diners of all ages.

There's nothing so fun about the following recipe suggestions for a deli spread.

Grilled Beef Sandwiches

- 1 (15-inch) French or Italian bread loaf
- 1/4 cup margarine, softened
- 3 tbsp. Dijon mustard
- 2 tbsp. sliced green onions
- 1 tsp. prepared horseradish
- 8 thin slices roast beef (about 1/4 lb.)
- 1 medium tomato, sliced
- 12 slices Lorraine cheese (about 1/2 lb.)
- 1 cup shredded lettuce

Remove heels of loaf; cut loaf in half lengthwise. Blend margarine and mustard until smooth; stir in green onions and horseradish. Spread mustard mixture on cut sides of bread. Arrange roast beef, tomato slices, cheese and lettuce on bottom side of loaf; replace top. Cut loaf crosswise into 6 pieces.

On metal skewer, thread three individual sandwiches through crusts. Repeat with another skewer and remaining sandwiches. Grill or broil, 4 inches from heat source, until heated through, turning to brown both sides. Serve immediately. Makes 6 servings.

Spicy Bistro Croissants

- 2 tbsp. Dijon mustard
- 1 tbsp. red wine vinegar
- 3 tbsp. olive oil
- 1 tsp. chopped fresh cilantro or parsley
- 1/4 tsp. ground cumin
- Salt and pepper, to taste
- 4 large croissants, split
- 4 red leaf lettuce leaves
- 4 thin slices turkey breast (about 1/4 lb.)
- 8 thin slices baked ham (about 1/2 lb.)
- 12 fresh snow peas
- 8 to 12 thin slices Lorraine cheese (about 1/4 lb.)
- 6 thin red bell pepper slices

In small bowl, combine mustard and vinegar; whisk in olive oil, a little at a time, until thickened. Stir in cilantro, cumin, salt and pepper. Spread bottom halves of croissants with mustard mixture, reserving some of the mixture. Divide and layer remaining ingredients on croissants. Spoon remaining mustard mixture over each; cover with croissant tops. Serve. Makes 4 servings.

Layered Club Salad

- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 1/4 cup dairy sour cream
- 1/4 cup Dijon mustard
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 3 cups shredded iceberg lettuce (about 1/2 medium head)
- 1 medium head radicchio or red cabbage, shredded (about 2 cups)
- 2 slices (1/4-inch thick) turkey breast, cut into julienne strips (about 1/2 lb.)
- 1 cup shredded carrots
- 3 slices (1/4-inch thick) Lorraine cheese, cut into julienne strips (about 1/4 lb.)
- 1 medium green bell pepper, cut into strips
- 1 pint cherry tomatoes, halved
- 8 slices bacon, cooked and crumbled
- 2 slices (1/4-inch thick) honey-cured ham, cubed (about 1/4 lb.)
- Alfalfa sprouts, for garnish

In small bowl, combine mayonnaise, sour cream, mustard and garlic; chill.
In large bowl, layer remaining ingredients, garnish with alfalfa sprouts. Top with prepared dressing; toss and serve. Makes 8 servings.

Party Platter

- 1/2 cup vegetable oil
- 3 tbsp. Dijon mustard
- 2 tbsp. red wine vinegar
- 1/4 tsp. dried basil leaves
- 2 tbsp. chopped pimientos
- 6 romaine lettuce leaves
- 1 Belgian endive, separated into leaves
- 1 large tomato, cut into wedges
- 5 slices hard salami (about 1/4 lb.)
- 8 slices Lorraine cheese, rolled (about 1/4 lb.)
- 4 slices ham, cut lengthwise into halves (about 1/4 lb.)
- 8 bread sticks
- Pitted ripe olives, for garnish

In small bowl, combine oil, mustard, vinegar, basil and pimientos; set aside.
On large platter, arrange next five ingredients. Wrap ham pieces around bread sticks; place on platter. Garnish with olives. Serve with prepared mustard dressing. Makes 8 servings.

Last-Minute Antipasto

- 1 head Boston lettuce
- 1 jar (6 oz.) marinated artichoke hearts
- 1 jar (2 1/2 oz.) marinated mushrooms
- 2 oz. flat anchovy fillets
- 1 lb. hard salami, thinly sliced
- 4 oz. Provolone cheese
- Cherry tomatoes
- Ripe olives
- Hot pickled peppers
- Oil and vinegar or Italian dressing

Line serving platter with lettuce leaves. Roll salami slices. Cut cheese into triangle-shaped wedges. Arrange ingredients on lettuce but do not add dressing until ready to serve. Cover and refrigerate. To serve, drizzle with oil and vinegar or Italian dressing. Can use as first course or appetizer.

Turkey-Apple Delight

- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 2 tbsp. Dijon mustard
- 2 tbsp. chopped mango chutney
- 1/2 tsp. chopped green onions
- 4 pita breads, cut into halves
- 3 thin slices smoked turkey breast (about 1/4 lb.)
- 1 large red or green apple, cored and cut into 8 rings
- 6 thin slices Swiss or Lorraine cheese

In small bowl, blend mayonnaise, mustard, chutney and green onions. Spread about 1 tablespoon mustard mixture in each pita half. Layer turkey, apple and cheese in each pita half. Serve. Makes 4 servings.

Marinated Vegetable Salad

- 1 bunch broccoli
 - 1 head cauliflower
 - 8 carrots, peeled and julienned
 - 1 cup prepared Italian dressing
 - 1 pint box cherry tomatoes
 - 1 can (8-oz.) pitted ripe olives, drained
 - 1 jar (5 1/2-oz.) stuffed green olives, drained
- Clean broccoli and cauliflower and separate into bite-size florets. Combine broccoli, cauliflower and carrots in non-aluminum dish. Marinate in dressing overnight in refrigerator. To serve, toss with cherry tomatoes and olives. Would be attractive in a 3-quart glass bowl.

Summer Salad With Mustard Sesame Dressing

- 2 slices (1/4-inch thick) baked ham (about 1/2 lb.)
- 1 slice (1/4-inch thick) cheese of your choice, cubed (about 8 oz.)
- 2 cups cut green beans, cooked crisp-tender
- 2 cups broccoli florets, cooked crisp-tender
- 1/2 cup sliced radishes
- 1/4 cup Dijon mustard
- 1/4 cup vegetable oil
- 2 tbsp. red wine vinegar
- 1 clove garlic, crushed
- 1 tsp. sugar
- 1/4 tsp. sesame oil

Cut ham into 1/4-by-1/4-inch strips. In serving bowl, combine ham, cheese, green beans, broccoli and radishes; set aside. In small bowl, whisk together remaining ingredients; pour over salad, tossing to coat well. Serve. Makes 4 servings.

Lemonade may be more lemon than aid

CHAMPAIGN — Parents who give their preschoolers sugared drinks to stave off hunger until mealtime may find the effect is greater than they wish, studies at the University of Illinois show.

Sugared drinks in almost every case suppressed children's appetites for up to an hour after the drinks, said Leanna Lipps Birch, a professor of human development who conducted the studies at the U. of I.'s Child Development Laboratory.

Further, children aged 2 to 5 who got sugared drinks before meals will limit mealtime calories by declining to eat the foods they consider less palatable, such as vegetables.

"I'm not saying don't give kids the calories. They need the calories," Birch said. "But it's better to have those calories come from foods that contain other nutrients as well."

In a series of studies at the lab, Birch found that preschoolers are naturally adept at regulating their caloric intake.

For example, on some days, children were given yogurt containing 40 calories and on other days had yogurt containing 150 calories.

Those given the lower-calorie yogurt compensated by eating higher-calorie snacks an hour later. Those who had the higher-calorie yogurt consumed fewer calories during snack time.

"They were sensitive to their energy intake," Birch said, "something adults have trouble with."

In the latest study, published in Physiology & Behavior (1989), children were given drinks sweetened with sugar or aspartame, a no-calorie artificial sweetener marketed under the trade name NutraSweet.

Those who had the aspartame-sweetened drinks later selected snacks higher in calories than the snacks chosen by children who had the sugared drinks.

"Mothers should be aware that giving sweetened drinks between meals suppresses their kids' food intake and can also decrease food variety," Birch said. "Not only that, but they often will choose to drop the less palatable — and possibly the more nutritious — foods at mealtime.

"They are substituting these calories in drinks for foods that contribute other nutrients in addition to calories."

In separate studies, Birch also found that increased exposure to a food leads to increased acceptance. If Johnny rejects lasagna today, keep trying, she advises.

"These foods likes and dislikes are not fixed," she said. "In general, if kids are exposed to fast food, that's what they're going to prefer. If they're exposed to steamed vegetables and chicken, they'll prefer that."

Grape salsa for tortilla roll-ups

- 1 cup grapes, seeded if necessary, chopped
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 1/2 cup Anaheim chili, seeded, chopped
- 2 tsp. olive oil
- 2 tsp. chopped cilantro
- 2 tsp. red bell pepper, chopped
- 1 tsp. lime juice
- 1 tsp. white vinegar
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- Salt to taste
- 4 flour tortillas
- Cheese Spread

Combine grapes, onion, chili, olive oil, cilantro, red bell pepper, lime juice, vinegar, garlic and salt.

Spread tortillas with Cheese Spread. Spoon 1/4 cup salsa on each tortilla. Roll up. Cover. Refrigerate at least 1 hour.

Cut in 1-inch slices.

Makes 28 appetizers.

Cheese Spread: Combine 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese and 1/2 cup (3 ounces) finely shredded cheddar cheese. Mix thoroughly. Makes 1 1/2 cups.

Barbecue sauce

- 1/2 cup oil
- 1/2 cup lemon juice
- 1 cup wine vinegar
- 1 cup soy sauce
- 1 tsp. rosemary
- 1 tsp. thyme
- 1 tsp. marjoram
- 1 tsp. oregano
- Salt and pepper to taste

Combine oil, lemon juice, vinegar, soy sauce, rosemary, thyme, marjoram, oregano, salt and pepper in jar. Store in refrigerator until ready to use.

Makes 1 1/2 cups sauce.

Note: Other herbs of choice may be used as desired.

Spicy cheese topping finishes easy chicken dish for winner

The great-tasting, original recipes of three creative teenage cooks have been named top prize winners in the Pate Young Cooks Recipe Contest.

Chicken Mexicana garnered grand prize honors for its taste appeal, ease of preparation and originality. Ready to serve in short order, the recipe relies on picante sauce to add garden flavor and punch to a lively cheese sauce served over chicken and rice. A last-minute sprinkling of cilantro adds bright color and flavor contrast. The top winner was Adrienne Stoboden, 13, of Puyallup, Wash.

Hearty Nacho Soup, first prize winner in the soups and stews category, is a fast-to-fix meal-in-a-bowl that makes great party fare. The full-flavored soup blends ground turkey or beef, fried beans, picante sauce and seasonings. Delicious served solo, the soup becomes "fun food" when topped with scallops, sour cream, tomatoes, olives, tortilla chips and cheese.

In the appetizers and snacks category, first prize was awarded to White Bean Dip, a lively, almost instant snack dip to serve with vegetable dippers or pita bread. The dip may be enjoyed hot, cold or at room temperature.

Recipe entries in the contest provided insight into the way young cooks are cooking today. Most often, recipes combined quality convenience foods with fresh foods to create exciting flavors fast, using only a few ingredients. Many main dishes were meatless.

1 Eggs, most often scrambled, seasoned with picante sauce and wrapped in flour tortillas, appear to be tops with teens. Chili and sloppy-Joe type sandwiches were frequent entries, as were Mexican versions of lasagna and pizza. Dips combining cream cheese and picante sauce with a wide range of additional ingredients abounded.

Chicken Mexicana

- 2 whole chicken breasts, split, boned, skinned
- 1 tsp. garlic salt
- 2 tbsp. butter or margarine
- 1 cup sliced green onions with tops (1/2 inch pieces)
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 cup picante sauce
- 4 oz. process cheese spread, diced
- 2 to 3 cups hot cooked rice
- 1/2 cup chopped fresh cilantro

Sprinkle chicken with garlic salt. Heat butter in 10-inch skillet over medium heat. Add chicken. Cook 5 minutes.

Turn over chicken. Add onion and green pepper around edges of chicken. Cook 5 minutes or until chicken is tender.

Place rice on serving platter. Remove chicken from skillet and place over rice. Keep warm. Add picante sauce and cheese to skillet. Cook and stir until cheese is melted and sauce is hot. Pour over chicken and rice. Sprinkle with cilantro.

Serve with additional picante sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Hearty nacho soup

- 1/2 lb. ground turkey or beef
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. chili powder
- 1 can (16 oz.) refried beans
- 1 cup water

1/2 cup picante sauce
Optional toppings: Dairy sour cream, sliced green onion, chopped tomato, sliced ripe olives, shredded cheddar or Monterey Jack cheese, tortilla chips.

Brown turkey in large saucepan. Drain.

Sprinkle with salt and chili powder. Add beans, water and picante sauce. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Reduce heat. Simmer, uncovered, 10 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Ladle into shallow bowls. Top as desired. Serve with additional picante sauce.

Makes 4 servings, about 4 cups soup.

White bean dip

- 1 small clove garlic
- 1 can (15 oz.) great northern or pinto beans, well drained
- 1 tsp. olive oil
- 1 tsp. lemon juice
- 1/2 tsp. cumin
- 1/2 cup picante sauce
- 2 tbsp. thinly sliced green onion
- Pita bread triangles
- Cherry tomatoes and vegetable dippers

Mince garlic in blender or food processor fitted with steel blade. Add beans, oil, lemon juice and cumin. Blend until smooth, scraping down sides as necessary.

Transfer to bowl. Stir in picante sauce. Sprinkle with green onion.

Serve with pita bread and vegetables at room temperature, chilled or heated, as desired.

Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

SPICY AND SIMPLE, Chicken Mexicana won top honors as the grand prize winner in a national recipe contest for young cooks.

Busy days let sun shine in on mixed 'n matching foods

According to a recent Gallup poll, more than 40 million Americans jog to keep fit. Swimming and bicycling are other popular choices. With the long daylight hours, there is more opportunity to participate in active sports and enjoy the weather.

A properly balanced diet is important to people with active lifestyles. It should contain the right amounts of protein — 10 to 20 percent of daily calorie intake, carbohydrate — 50 to 60 percent, and fat — up to 30 percent. In addition to containing proper nutrients, summer food should be tasty as well as quick and easy to prepare.

Summer fruits make this type of eating a joyful experience. Here grapes rate high on the list for these versatile summer eating ideas that do not require much preparation time. With several varieties available most of the year, mixing and matching grapes with other favorite foods is an easy habit to adopt.

Start the day with a burst of tangy grape sweetness in cereal or mixed with yogurt. A bowl of mixed grapes in the refrigerator is ready for snacking, dipping into savory or sweet sauces or adding a final touch to a quick saute. A handful of grapes adds a pleasant surprise to salads, muffins and stir-frys. Simply mixed with low-fat yogurt and subtle seasonings, a grape mixture becomes full of calcium benefits as well. A fresh mint dressing is a tasty way to enhance grapes and other fruits in combination.

For a light pool-side lunch or patio dinner, chop red and green seedless grapes into a lively seafood or chicken salad. Chopped dill pickles and a favorite dressing season the mixture. Grape and Salmon Salad takes just minutes to put together, giving you extra time to make the most of these bright summer days.

Grape yogurt delight

2 cups vanilla low-fat yogurt
1 1/2 cups grapes, halved, seeded if necessary
1 tbsp. grated orange peel
1/2 tsp. cinnamon

Combine yogurt, grapes, orange peel and cinnamon. Mix thoroughly. Refrigerate. Spoon into serving dishes for snack or light dessert, or serve over hot or cold cereal.

Makes 3 1/2 cups.

Summer grape and fruit salad

1/2 cup grapes, halved, seeded if necessary
1/2 cup pineapple chunks
1/2 cup nectarine, sliced
1/2 cup orange, peeled, sliced
Bibb lettuce
Fresh Mint Dressing

Arrange grapes, pineapple, nectarines and orange on individual lettuce-lined serving plates. Serve with Fresh Mint Dressing.

Makes 2 servings.
Fresh Mint Dressing: Combine 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 2 tablespoons oil, 1 tablespoon honey and 1 tablespoon chopped fresh mint. Mix well. Makes about 1/4 cup.

Grape and salmon salad

1 can (7 1/2 oz.) salmon, drained, flaked (See Note)
1/2 cup fresh grapes, seeded if necessary

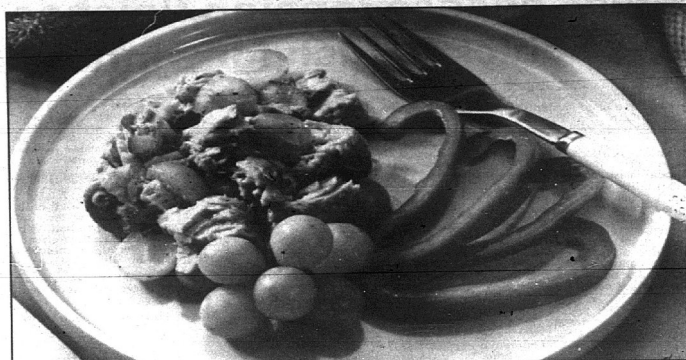

2 tbsp. chopped green onion
1 tbsp. chopped dill pickle
1/4 tsp. pepper sauce
Dash pepper
Grape clusters
1 red or green bell pepper, sliced in strips
Lettuce leaves
Bottled vinaigrette dressing

Combine salmon, grapes, green onion, dill pickle, pepper sauce and pepper. Mix well.

Arrange salmon mixture, grape clusters and pepper strips on lettuce-lined plate. Drizzle with dressing. Or toss salmon mixture with dressing before serving.

Makes 2 servings; 283 calories, 23.8 gm. protein, 13.9 gm. fat, 18.3 gm. carbohydrate, 4 gm. fiber, 59 mg. cholesterol and 765 mg. sodium each.

Note: Chicken or tuna can be substituted.

SUMMER FOOD should contain the right amounts of protein, carbohydrate and fat, as well as being tasty, quick and easy to prepare.

Herb-stuffed eggs

- ### Marinated potato salad

- ### Pork kabobs

Pork kabobs

- Marinate pork 3 hours in combined soy sauce, water, lemon juice, garlic and ginger.
Dip mushroom and zucchini in marinade. Thread pork, zucchini and mushrooms on skewers.
Grill over hot coals 10 to 15 minutes, turning frequently.
Makes 4 servings.

Bacon-wrapped turkey burgers

- 12 slices bacon
1 lb. ground turkey
½ cup fine dry bread crumbs
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
½ tsp. garlic salt

Cook bacon until limp. Cool. Mix turkey, bread crumbs, Worcestershire sauce and garlic salt. Salt and pepper to taste. Shape into six 1/2-inch thick patties. Crisscross 2 slices bacon on each patty, tucking ends under. Secure with wooden picks. Grill or broil 4 inches from heat about 4 minutes on each side until turkey springs back when touched and is no longer pink. Remove picks.

Makes 6 servings.

Spaghetti squash bake

- 1 spaghetti squash, halved Fresh herbs (dill, basil, oregano or thyme)
1 Shallot Butter

Remove seeds from squash. Arrange in shallow baking dish, cut-side down, with $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water. Bake at 350° for 40 to 45 minutes. Turn cut-side up. Continue baking until tender.

Run fork through cooked squash to release strands from skin. Season with one or several fresh herbs and Shallot Butter. Serve immediately.

Shallot Butter: Over medium heat in small saucepan, saute 1 shallot, peeled and diced, in $\frac{1}{2}$ cup butter or margarine, until shallot is translucent, but not brown.

Chocolate-pineapple nut sundae parfait

- 2 cups chocolate flavor syrup
1 can (8 oz.) crushed pineapple juice
½ cup chopped nuts
Ice cream, softened

In medium saucepan, combine chocolate syrup and pineapple. Cook over medium heat until mixture comes to boil. Boil 1 minute. Remove from heat. Stir in nuts.

In parfait glass, alternate ice cream and sauce. Garnish as desired.

Makes about 3 cups sauce.

Carrot coleslaw

- 2 cups shredded carrot
1 cup shredded cabbage
¼ cup oil
2 tbsp. cider vinegar
½ tsp. caraway seeds
¼ tsp. salt
Pinch pepper

In bowl, mix together carrots, cabbage, oil, vinegar, caraway, salt and pepper. Cover. Chill.
Makes about six (½-cup) servings; 100 calories, 1 gm. protein, 4 gm. carbohydrate, 7 gm. fat, no cholesterol, 110 mg. sodium each.

Ginger lamb and walnut rice salad

- 4 cooked shoulder lamb chops or pork chops
3 cups cooked rice
2 green onions with tops, sliced
¼ cup oil
2 tbsp. lemon juice

- 1 to 2 tsp. grated fresh ginger or $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. ground ginger
- 1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts
- 2 tbsp. soy sauce

Lettuce

Remove bone and fat from chops. Cut lamb in 1-by-1/2-by-3/4 strips. In large bowl, combine lamb, rice and green onions. In small bowl, mix oil, lemon juice and ginger together well. Stir into rice mixture. Cover. Chill sev-

Combine walnuts and soy sauce in small bowl. Mix well. Arrange walnuts in single layer on baking sheet or in large heavy frying pan. Bake at 400° until crisp, turning once, about 5 minutes or heat until crispy in frying pan, being careful not to burn them. Cool.

Just before serving, stir nuts into salad. Serve in lettuce-lined bowl.

Makes 6 servings.

Juices embody alternatives that healthy vegetables offer

Summer's draining heat focuses on fluids to keep people going in the hottest weather. Water is the best quencher when a person is really thirsty, but fruit and vegetable juices give an extra nutritional boost. The empty calories of soft drinks or sugary fruit drinks, punches or ades just cannot compete in the long run.

Although fruit juices may be more popular, vegetable juices are typically lower in calories and provide a good supply of potassium and vitamin A, as well as some iron and other minerals. Tomato juice often is fortified with vitamin C. All these vitamins and minerals can play an important role in maintaining good health.

Fresh vegetable juice can be prepared with a juicer for the freshest taste, or it can be bought from a store. Tomato juice and tomato blends are most common, although carrot and other vegetable juices also may be available. Look for fresh-packed juice or juice from concentrate.

Be sure to check the sodium content, too. Tomato and sauerkraut juices frequently are salted heavily. Carrot juice generally is not. Unsalted tomato juice now is available from producers. If the taste seems a little flat, try a few drops lemon juice to perk up the flavor.

Because homemade vegetable juices are usually concentrated and sharp, try mixing the juice of stronger vegetables like beets or spinach with lighter varieties like carrots or celery. Experiment with different herbs and spices for new flavors.

Vegetable juice is delicious served chilled, or it can be heated for soup. It also provides a source of added nutrition when used as the liquid in a wide variety of recipes.

The following is a good example. It combines the tangy sweetness of yogurt and tomatoes with the spiciness of curry and vegetable juice. Serve with brown rice and a simple vegetable.

Curried chicken with vegetables

- 2 whole chicken breasts, split, skinned, boned, cut in thin strips
- 1/2 cup plain low-fat yogurt
- 2 tbsp. cornstarch
- 1 1/2 cups low-sodium vegetable juice
- 1 tbsp. margarine
- 2 cups sliced yellow or green summer squash
- 1/2 cup green pepper, cut in small squares
- 2 tsp. curry powder
- 1 (15 oz.) can kidney beans, rinsed, drained

Place yogurt and cornstarch in medium bowl. Gradually stir in vegetable juice. Mix well.

Melt margarine in 10-inch skillet over medium heat. Add chicken, squash, green pepper and curry powder. Cook, stirring until chicken is browned and vegetables are tender-crisp.

Stir in vegetable juice mixture. Add kidney beans. Cook over medium heat, stirring frequently, until sauce thickens.

Yields about 5 cups, or 4 to 6 servings; 278 calories and about 5 gm. fat per cup.

Ice cream maker

Vanilla ice cream

- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 4 cups (1 qt.) half-and-half or light cream
- 1 (14 oz.) can sweetened condensed milk
- 1 tbsp. vanilla

In large bowl, combine eggs, half-and-half, sweetened condensed milk and vanilla. Mix well. Pour into ice cream freezer container.

Freeze according to manufacturer's instructions. Return leftovers to freezer.

'Lightened' and filling lasagna layers winning dairy products

Cooks throughout the St. Louis area lined up to present their winning appetizer topping, lasagna, salad, beverage and dessert recipes in the Osteoporosis Awareness Recipe Contest. The grand prize went to Janis Curlee of St. Louis for Creamy Lasagna.

Celebrity judges taste-tested the top entries chosen by St. Mary's Health Center dietitians for their high-calcium, low-fat ingredients. The top prize was a trip for two to Disneyland, courtesy of American Airlines and Near and Far Travel, decided when chefs at Cafe Balaban prepared the recipes.

Other category winners each received $100 gift certificates from National Super Markets and a Pevely Dairy product package.

They were: Wanda Lee, Festus, for "Sour Cream" Topping in the appetizer category; Carol Roth, Manchester, for Layer and Toss Salad; Joe Wilkerson, House Springs, Tomato Mary, a rich beverage; Mrs. Leonard Schulte, Maryland Heights, Yogurt Fruit Dream in the dessert category.

The contest was sponsored by the Missouri Osteoporosis Foundation, National Super Markets, St. Louis District Dietetic Association, St. Louis Dairy Council and St. Mary's Health Center.

'Sour cream' topping

1 cup low-fat cottage cheese
1 tsp. skim milk
2 up. lemon juice
Chives or other herbs and spices to taste

Combine cottage cheese, skim milk, lemon juice and herbs in blender until smooth.

Makes about 1 cup. Use as dip for fresh vegetables or topping for potatoes, or sweetened and used as topping for fresh fruit, angel food cake or pound cake.

Tomato mary

1 cup plain yogurt

1 cup nonfat milk
1 1/2 cups low-salt tomato juice
1 carrot, diced
1 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. dried weed
1 tsp. pepper sauce

Whirl together yogurt, milk, tomato juice, carrot, lemon juice, salt, dill and pepper sauce in blender until carrots are pureed and mixture is smooth as possible.

Makes six (5-ounce each) servings.

Creamy lasagna

1 lb. ground beef
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 (14 1/2 oz.) can tomatoes, cut up
1 (6 oz.) can tomato paste
1 cup water
1 garlic clove, minced
1 tsp. dried oregano leaves, crushed
1/2 tsp. salt
1 tsp. pepper
1 (8 oz.) pkg. reduced-calorie cream cheese, cubed
1/2 cup milk
8 oz. lasagna noodles, uncooked
2 (6 oz.) pkg. part-skim mozzarella cheese slices
1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese

Cook lasagna noodles according to package directions. Drain. Brown meat in skillet. Drain.

Add onions. Cook until tender. Stir in tomatoes, tomato paste, water, garlic, oregano, salt and pepper. Cover. Simmer 30 minutes.

Combine cream cheese and milk in saucepan. Stir over low heat until smooth.

In 13-by-9 inch baking pan, layer lasagna noodles, meat mixture, cream cheese mixture, mozzarella and parmesan cheese. Repeat layer.

Bake at 350° for 30 minutes. Let stand 10 minutes before serving.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Layer and toss salad

1 cup broccoli flowerets

2 cups cauliflowerets
4 cups fresh spinach, torn in bite size pieces
1/2 to 3/4 lb. fresh crabmeat or 1 (7 oz.) can crabmeat, rinsed, drained
2 thin slices Bermuda onion
1/2 cup (4 oz.) plain nonfat yogurt
1/2 cup reduced-calorie mayonnaise
1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese
1 tsp. sugar, if desired
1/2 cup (2 oz.) shredded reduced-fat cheddar cheese
1/2 cup (1 oz.) shredded part-skim mozzarella cheese

In microwave-safe 1-quart dish, place cauliflower and broccoli. Cover. Microwave on high 3 1/2 to 4 minutes, until tender and crisp. Drain.

In 10-cup serving bowl, place spinach. Layer cauliflower, broccoli, crabmeat and onion slices on top.

In small bowl, combine yogurt, mayonnaise, parmesan cheese and sugar. Spoon mixture on salad. Spread to cover. Sprinkle cheddar cheese and mozzarella cheese on top. Cover. Refrigerate overnight.

Toss lightly before serving. Makes 6 servings.

Yogurt fruit dream

2 envelopes whipped topping
1 cup cold skim milk
3 (8 oz.) cartons fruit-flavored yogurt
1 (20 oz.) can pineapple chunks, drained
1 (16 oz.) fruit in flavor to match yogurt, drained
1 cup miniature marshmallows
1 cup chopped nuts
Marshmallow cherries, pineapple chunks, nuts

Mix whipped topping mix with milk. Beat until very stiff. Fold in yogurt. Fold in pineapple, yogurt, marshmallows and nuts. Pour into dish. Garnish with cherries, pineapple and nuts as desired. Chill before serving.

May add few drops coloring, if desired.

Makes 10 to 12 servings.

Train: best way to see Scotland

By Robert F. Miller

Lying in a bathtub deep enough for flip turns, I came to a conclusion. I was at the Caledonian Hotel in Edinburgh, Scotland, a delightfully restored Victorian monster in a city that has always seemed to me to be the San Francisco of the real world. Beyond my toes, through a tall, foggy doorway, was a castle perched on its pile of mossy rock above the city. I had just returned from a train trip through the Scottish highlands. My conclusion was that the easiest, most comfortable and, in many ways, most enjoyable way to see some of the world's most remote, dramatic and beautiful country is by train. Forget the rental car and leave the driving to Scotland.

From a train window, visitors can see red stage on a mountainside at sunset, hills the colors of a Harris tweed jacket, the shores of Loch Lomond as the train roars along its gentle edge, and Ben Nevis, Scotland's highest mountain—a great, huge thing that looms over the misty town of Fort William. Visitors can also see the Rannoch Moor, one of Scotland's most isolated regions, where the stretch of track floats on peaty bogs because there is no solid ground beneath it, the astounding, enormous sandy beaches near Arisaig, the sleepy village of Mull of Galloway, the lovely Isle of Skye basking in the distance.

Then there were the train's creature comforts: steak and kidney pie with a fine bottle of claret; my first taste of haggis, that indescribable and delicious creation served with turnips and tatoes; the drinks trolley propelled the length of the train and attended with wit and charm by Gloria and Moira; easy conversation with fellow travelers; a wee dram savoring in a window seat before retiring for the night. What is it about a train's tiny sleeping compartment that brings back memories of childhood? Is it the rumble, the darkness and rush of occasional light, the sense of being enclosed and safe, the muffled voices far away? Perhaps.

The rail system, built during the Victorian era, remains one of the great feats of modern engineering, which is all the more reason to explore this overpowering country by train.

The advantage of travel by train is that in addition to fine food, drink and accommodations, you have a view of the countryside superior to any other means of transportation. In fact, there are parts of the country that can be seen only by train or foot. Particularly for those travelers who would rather not, or cannot, explore by rental car, this is definitely the way to go.

Capricorn Tours in New York (800-226-6544, 212-967-2411) packages three train programs with air fare from the United States and hotel stays in London. The Highlander leaves London for Holy Island, Duff Town, Inverness, Kyle of Lochalish, the Isle of Skye, Edinburgh with a return to London. The seven-day trip is available through Sept. 10.

The West Highlander also leaves from London and visits Oban, the Isle of Mull, Fort William, Mallaig, and Edinburgh. A short cruise on Loch Nevis is a highlight. The trip is available through Oct. 6.

Prices for both of these tours range from $955 to $965 and do not include the cost of air transportation.

The Orcadian, which includes a visit to Tain, John O'Groats, the Orkney Isles, Kyle of Lochalish, the Isle of Skye and before returning to London. The trip is available through Oct. 13. Prices range from $965 to $980, air fare not inclusive.

Britrail also offers trips from London to Scotland. Contact the British Tourist Authority, Illinois residents (312) 787-0460, for more information.

Edinburgh: the capital city of Scotland since days of old

Edinburgh became Scotland's capital at the end of the Middle Ages. Before that time the capital was wherever the king and his court happened to be. Edinburgh was just one of several centers.

But from the 11th century onward, Edinburgh was the favorite residence of the Scottish kings. When Queen Margaret died in 1058, the oldest surviving building in Edinburgh Castle—the chapel—was built in her memory. Apart from the chapel, virtually nothing is known of the earliest buildings of the castle.

About one mile from the chapel, Margaret's youngest son David I (1084-1153) built the abbey of Holyrood. The monks worked the soil and brewed beer, which brought in a community of farmers, craftsmen and traders. This area, known as Canon's Gate, remained a separate burgh until the middle of the 17th century.

This Royal Mile began to develop as a single street that combined Holyrood with the castle. This section, and the ones that developed around it, are referred to as the Old Town. Ancient rock formations still can be seen on various street corners of Old Town.

The British Tourist Authority has information about Edinburgh Castle and other historic sites.

If you go Most people stop first in London, England. TWA has nonstop flights from St. Louis to London. Flying time is about 7 hours 55 minutes. Add about an hour coming back from London travel agent or call TWA for fare information.

Americans must have a valid passport to enter Great Britain. Visas are not necessary.

For more information, write to: British Tourist Authority, John Hancock Center, 875 N. Michigan Ave., Suite 3320, Chicago, 60611; or call (312) 787-0460.

Fabulous foliage, cuisine await Maine's fall friends

By Randy Mind
Correspondent

In late September, fiery fall colors heighten the rugged splendor of Maine's rockbound coast.

Golden sugar maples and the buttery yellows of birches and elms create blazing canopies on jagged peninsulas notched by coves and inlets. Oaks, maples and sumacs scream fire-engine red, accenting the cool green of pines.

Southern Maine's autumn spectacle rivals any in New England. Like Vermont and other fabled foliage fiefdoms, Maine offers storybook villages, lakes and mountains, farm stands and country inns, antique shops and craft studios.

But travelers who venture to Maine also get a salty taste of seafaring traditions. Visiting a lighthouse, cruising around coastal islands or cracking a freshly caught lobster at a dockside diner are not possible in land-locked Vermont. New Hampshire, bordering Maine on the south and west, has only a short seacoast.

Maine's remoteness — it is the northernmost (and largest) New England state — appeals to fall "leaf peepers" who want to avoid crowds. The Maine border, though, is less than two hours from Boston and more-traveled foliage routes.

Many travelers view Maine as strictly a summer destination, leaving it relatively untrampled by fall wanderers.

In the tidy seaside resort of Boothbay Harbor, tourists walk out on wooden piers to photograph weathered boat houses and pose with piles of lobster traps.

Along leaf-strewn lanes sloping to the waterfront, shops deal in nautical antiques, country crafts and other treasures. Restaurants serve hot chowder and all types of fresh seafood. A long footbridge, provides a good photo vantage point and spans the harbor.

Under crisp blue skies patrolled by shrieking sea gulls, excursion boats glide past hill-sides splashed with fireballs of red and gold. Boat captains point out playful harbor seals and working fishermen.

For unsurpassed views of classic Maine seascapes, take the popular drive to Ocean Point. The road weaves through woodlands to a craggy tip of land bombarded by foamy waves.

Though Boothbay Harbor is a busy summer resort and yachting center, the pace slows when warm breezes give way to sweeter weather. Many businesses close for the season after Columbus Day weekend. Motel rates drop after Oct. 1.

A skip north leads to Wiscasset, an unspoiled village awash in colonial charm. It's New England in a nutshell. Located on the Sheepscot River, Wiscasset was the busiest seaport north of Boston after the Revolutionary War.

Antique hounds salivate in Hallowell, a small inland town just outside Augusta, the state capital. On a main street with gas lamps and brick sidewalks, vintage storefronts entice serious collectors and nostalgia-minded wayfarers.

The Maine State Museum in Augusta spotlights Maine industry, agriculture and natural history. Attractive exhibits focus on fishing, lumbering, shoe-making, woolen mills, sardine canning and crops like apples and blueberries.

Ice cream fans should not bypass Gifford's Ice Cream in Farmington. On a sunny afternoon last October, I devoured a "Maple Supreme," a cup of rich vanilla ice cream drenched in pure maple syrup. Then I made a mad dash to Maine Maple Products, a farm that sells maple salad dressing and maple mustard as well as maple sugar candy and syrup. Other treats include blueberry syrup and jam.

For tourist information, contact the Maine Publicity Bureau, 97 Winthrop St., Hallowell, Maine 04347. The telephone number is (207) 289-2423.

PORTLAND HEAD LIGHT, one of America's most-photographed lighthouses, overlooks the entrance to Portland's harbor.

Tennis lover's dream begins on Wauwinet court

A four-day tennis package featuring cottage accommodations near the courts is offered by the Wauwinet, a deluxe beachfront inn on Nantucket.

The package also provides two Wauwinet crest tennis shirts and dinner the evening of arrival in Topper's, the inn's award-winning restaurant.

The inn's clay surface tennis courts are secluded in woods adjacent to four of its five cottages. A pro shop is next to the courts where private lessons are $20 a half hour and $35 an hour.

The package includes two hours of tennis daily.

This Tennis Everyone special is available for $295 in fall, Sept. 7 through Oct. 27, and $439 in summer, June 15 through Sept. 6. Price is per person, double occupancy.

Reason for that rantin' and ravin'

To the editor:

The following may seem as if it is rambling rantin' and ravin', but we have been sitting back rantin' and ravin' to each other and with friends for years. This rantin', ravin' scenario is about our national, state, and local tax increase issues. They are getting to be too, too much.

We are middle class, working our fool heads off, common people. As you are most apparently aware, the middle class, working our fool heads off, common people pay all the national, state, and local bills; but only get, if we are fortunate, a slight increase per year. 5 percent may be a good average figure (some may receive less if any at all and others more).

Then, we hear from the "Honorable" we have elected.

The federal government is trying to increase taxes without saying they are increasing taxes by adding to existing taxes, because we are reading like that say, "No new taxes."

The Honorable Governor, the Honorable Representatives, the Honorable Senators of the great State of Illinois, who represent us — you and me — propose several tax increases and our great power facility wants to increase rates.

1. Governor wants higher taxes on cigarettes.

2. Transportation wants to increase taxes on gasoline 40 percent.

3. The House Speaker and Majority Leader want to increase taxes for education. We suppose this would be in addition to the local government that want to increase taxes for education, too.

4. Then we received a statement from the Board of Appeals that assessed our property. The tax has increased. Nice, huh? Not so nice when they figure the market value of your residence is more than you paid for it, which then increases the assessed valuation, which then means you pay more taxes again. This can be appealed, if you are lucky and if you have direct knowledge of homes comparable to yours and if you have a picture of them or can take one. Great system dreamed up for the many, because the many will not do it.

5. The power company plans to increase rates (very taxing on the pocketbook).

6. Then a "straw" that would break any camel's back, our public servants get a raise.

If they get it for themselves, let them also get it for all the workers that pay their salaries, too. Oh! Where are their guts now? The companies believe if they do not get lower wages from their workers or have less workers they cannot make 10 percent profit or more. Years ago, if a company made a profit of 5 to 10 percent, they were really doing great, not any more.

If we all have to operate more productively and more efficiently and more frugally, then why not the national and the state and the local governments?

An article on Monday, May 29, 1989 said, "Illinois Voters Favor Tax Increase." Is this really true? There were 57 percent of the people in the northern (Chicago area) part of the state that favored the increase and 52 percent that favored the increase in the southern part of the state. Probably very true or we are sure the paper would not have printed it. But, we believe 57 percent of the people that were interviewed worked for the federal, state or local department, agency, officer, and that the same is true for those questioned in the southern part of the state.

You see everyone we have spoken to from the northern part of the state to the southern part does not want a tax increase in any shape or size or in any other sheep's clothing.

So, just who wants these increases?

If anyone should see some people all bent over as though they were carrying a very heavy load, we want you to know they are from the State of Illinois.

Rantin' and ravin'. Rantin' and ravin'. At least, we have for years. Let our sediments be known. We love the State of Illinois and the United States of America. We do not believe there is a more beautiful place in the world. But, please, please, let us have the chance to be able to enjoy it with some (and we are not asking a great amount) left after taxes.

JERRY and BARBARA ALLEN

'Creed' reflects American values

To the editor:

"I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon these principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore, believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag, and to defend it against all enemies." William Tyler Page

The American's Creed was written by William Tyler Page in 1917. As a clerk of the United States House of Representatives, he won a national contest for the "best summary of American political faith" and was awarded $1,000 by the City of Baltimore. The Creed was accepted by the House of Representatives on April 3, 1918. The Druella Andrews Chapter DAR urges every citizen to learn The American's Creed.

County animal shelter needs help

To the editor:

Recently, the citizens of Madison County were informed by the Madison County Rabies Control Department of the county animal shelter. Due to the increase of "stray" dogs/cats and the increase in "bite cases," our county animal shelter is now too many dogs/cats than it can humanely handle.

According to the Rabies Control Department, unclaimed animals are now killed two times a week instead of once a week and as many as six to eight dogs are kept in a run — all to keep up with the continuous flow of "stray" and unwanted animals from Madison.

The Rabies Control Department thought a solution to this overcrowding might be to discontinue the Madison County Humane Society's adoption program at the county animal shelter after February 1990. However, the Humane Society pays rent for and uses only three dog runs and high adoption rates, the Humane Society is able to actually free up more space.

The Madison County Humane Society is not at fault here and neither is the County Rabies Control Department and the animals are certainly not to blame! An addition to the present county animal shelter would be nice but doubtful. A new separate building for the Humane Society would also be very nice but not possible in the near future due to the time and difficulties in raising such money by the Humane Society.

The solution to this problem is more responsible owners! There are no "stray" dogs and cats, only irresponsible pet owners who allow their animals to breed, run loose and fail to provide proper identification for their pet.

The 1988 statistics from the Co. shelter are alarming and tragic. 3,200 dogs turned in to the county, 2,212 killed, the remainder adopted or reclaimed. Approximately 1,627 cats turned in to the county, 1,345 killed, the rest adopted or reclaimed. Please do not allow your pet to run loose, make sure your pet has correct ID tags on today and make an appointment to have your pet spayed or neutered.

Please support the Madison County Humane Society. If you are interested in becoming a member or volunteer or would like to donate to the Humane Society's building fund, please write to the Madison Co. Humane Society, P.O. Box #1, Edwardsville, Ill. 62025.
